Dist. 59 Educational Facilities On Par With Village Schools

Dedication of the new wing of the Elk Grove School (District 59), Higgins rd. and Touhy ave., will be in the form of an open house to be held Sunday afternoon, November 30. There will be a brief program in the auditorium at 2:30 p. m., following which the entire building will be open for inspection. Teachers will act as hosts and hostesses in the classrooms, and there will be exhibits of pupils' work. The open house will close with tea and coffee being served in the auditorium.

The new wing, a one-story structure extending east from the main building, provides four classrooms, office, teachers conference room, toilets, basement storage space, and boiler room. It was designed and the construction supervised by the architectural firm of W. F. McCaughey and Associates of Park Ridge, also the designers of the last addition in 1948.

THE GENERAL contractor was the Lee Construction Co. of Chicago. Electrical, plumbing and heating work was done by the Builders Lighting Construction Co., John J. Cahill, Inc., and Wacholz Heating Co., respectively. All were low bidders in the original letting of bids. Total cost of construction was $102,253.38, and additional costs such as architects' fees, legal expenses and insurance during construction brought the total cost to the district to $110,895.58. Although final details have only recently been completed, the facilities have been in full use since the opening of school.

The new wing generally features sound construction methods which should serve the district well over the years with low maintenance costs. All classrooms and administrative space is plastered, accoustical ceilings are provided throughout, and classrooms are light and well ventilated.

THE HEATING system has been designed with control by zones and to allow for differences in outside temperature on the different sides of the building. The design of the new wing is such that the building can be added to at a minimum of expense and disruption of school activity by an addition on the ground level to the north or by a second story above the new wing. Work on the grounds has been seriously handicapped by the fall weather. Preliminary grading and relocation of playground equipment, however, has been completed.

Although the principal occasion for the open house is the dedication of the new wing, the board of education is glad of the opportunity to have parents and the general public visit the school to see other physical improvements which have been made and to become more familiar with the educational work of the school.

THE CONSTRUCTION of additional plant facilities is only a part of the program to meet the expanding needs of the district. Educational facilities now provided which were not available a few years ago include additional staff, a greater proportion of classes devoted to single grades, a musical program, both vocal and instrumental, special reading and speech programs, clerical assistance for the staff, improved library and visual aid facilities, and more professional administration.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Elk Grove residents as well as patrons of Arlington Heights high school, of which district 59 is a part.

Public Hearing Dec. 12 On Rezoning Of Land To Permit Housing Project

Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals will hold a hearing in Palatine village hall Wednesday, Dec. 12, on a petition asking the rezoning of the 550 acre tract between Wilke and Rohlwing rds., south of Arlington Park race track.

The amendment as proposed, seeks to rezone the land from its present classification as farming to R-4 (residence 10,000 sq. ft.) and also asks for a variation to reduce each lot size to 7,500 square feet or greater, each with a minimum of 60 feet width.

The reduction in area is asked because it is not the intention of the subdivider, Norman Hill and Associates, to install septic tanks. They are planning to build a sewage treatment plant. This property is now owned by William D. Maloney.

Subdivisions Topic at Board Meet

Two new subdivisions were the main topic at the special meeting of the Arlington Heights village board Monday night.

One was the proposed Kimball Hill project, Rolling Meadows, which includes 511 acres of land south of Arlington Park race track, west of Wilke rd. to Rohlwing rd., and north of Kirchhoff rd. This subdivision will build its own sewer and water facilities, elementary school, streets and sidewalks. Actual construction awaits approval of the County zoning board of appeals to rezone the land from farming classification to residential.

A public hearing on the rezoning will be held December 12, at 8 p.m., at the Palatine village hall.

THE OTHER concerns 120 acres of land, including 40 acres in the north half of Sherwood subdivision, and 80 acres bounded by Yale ave. on the east, Wilke rd. on the west, Thomas ave. on the north and Oakton st. on the south.

The subdivider desires to put sewer, water, and street improvements in the area, preparing it for future home development. They sought the village's approval to connect the improvements with existing facilities at the subdivider's expense. The board granted the permission. No improvements can be made, however, until the board OK's plans and specifications of the project.

Trude Land Development Co. tendered a proposal to pave one block of E. Rockwell st., between State rd. and Evergreen ave., to relieve the unsightly condition of the road. The board approves, and the developer was asked to bring in plans and specifications of the paving for the board's approval.

Lorrain Homes sought permission to erect a sign in a parkway in the Arlington Ridge subdivision, which would be used to advertise their homes. The permit was denied on the grounds that the village does not permit signs to be erected on public parkways.

A petition to have the property occupied by Arlington Plating Co., 11 S. State rd., rezoned from business to light industrial, was presented to the board by Attorney Harvey Adams. The board referred it to the zoning board of appeals.

Business Men Discover Education Is Not What It 'Used To Be'

The 150 business men of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Wheeling who were guests of Arlington Heights high school November 19 were frequently heard to remark, "Education is not what it used to be."

This was specially true of those who received their education in the one room school building or in the grade schools of the 1920 vintage. It is certain that few, if any, business men who received first hand information that afternoon on modern education methods, will ever again complain about the taxes that go to the schools.

There were also present some educators, members of the faculty of other schools, who were just as interested over the operation of the modern education methods as those from the business world.

Modern education recognizes that practically every boy and girl enters high school today regardless of his individual educational qualifications. He no longer steps out of school at the sixth, seventh or eighth grade level because of inability to master the subjects being taught. He is pushed along until he becomes a high school freshman.

IT IS THE JOB of the high school to give to each individual student the educational training that he is able to assimilate.

Such a method is naturally impossible in the smaller high schools, but AHTHS has a curriculum that is set up on that basis.

The student who expects to go to college is given a training that in some cases equals that found in the first and second year of college instruction. While their parents and the general public hear most about the extra-curricular activities, such as athletics, clubs, dramatics, etc., the greater part of the school day is spent in preparing the pupil for adult life. That instruction comes from some of the best trained teachers in the high school world of Chicagoland area.

While an increasing percentage of boys and girls expect to enter college, the demand for the business world for qualified individuals which the school can recommend is greater than can be supplied from the graduating classes.

THE BROAD educational program of today teaches the boy and girl how to play, as well as how to prepare himself for the business world.

The above is a general outline of what the business visitors discovered last Wednesday. Following a luncheon which they were told is the regular 35-cent repast served to students, the group departed upon the particular tour in which each thought would be the most interesting to him. All tours passed through the gymnasium and the music rooms.

Visits to the class rooms were necessarily limited to 10 to 15 minutes. The number interested in the music education department was so great that two groups were formed. Single groups took in common learnings program, home economics, industrial arts, science.

Following the tours, the group assembled in the new cafeteria with their tour guides for a question and answer period concerning procedures and policies of the school. Following this question and answer period, coffee was served; after which E. F. Laurin, president of the board of education of district 214, outlined the present thinking of the board in regard to future expansion. He said that in the not too distant future more class room space will be needed.

IT IS THE THOUGHT of the board that it would be economically advantageous to erect feeder high schools for the first two years in some other area within the district. Educational facilities for junior and senior years cost more than what is needed for the two earlier years.

It was pointed out that plans for the future include expanding curriculum areas to the extent that interests and abilities of all students' needs could be met to a higher degree, thus meeting the interests of more boys and girls and particularly those who are interested in the vocational skills such as auto mechanics, sheet metal, surveying, shoe making, etc.

Evidence throughout the meeting was to the extent that education today does a far better job than it has done at any time in the past, and that even though we feel that boys and girls do not spell or read or write as well as they did years ago, that evidence, according to standardized tests and scores, point to the fact that students do spell better than they ever did, they read better, and write more intelligently. It is true that some students do fail to meet the standards of society.

THE QUALITY or evaluation of education by some is based on these few students, and not on the over-all student pattern of modern schools. Generally speaking, students know more, read and write better, than they have at any time during the development of the American educational system. One needs only to visit a modern-day school to see and appreciate the development and improvement in the modern educational system.

Burglars Blow Safe At Gaare Oil Company

When the bookkeeper of Gaare Oil Co., Rohlwing road and Northwest highway entered that office Monday morning she detected the odor of nytroglycerine and found the doors of a large safe blown open. The charge was so heavy that a hole was blown through the rear of the safe.

Examination showed that the petty cash of about $200 was taken, also a locked steel box containing insurance papers, truck licenses, state vehicle tags, and other valuable papers worth more than the cash taken.

The office desks were ransacked but none of the bookkeeping machines were taken. The burglars also had no use of government bonds, which were taken from a drawer and left nicely piled on the top of the desk.

County police believe that experts handled the job, although they did not find any finger prints.

Voice Of Democracy Contest Winner To Present Speech Before Public

Friday, Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights field house citizens of the township are invited to hear a voice of the future American democracy. That evening the local winner of the nationwide "Voice of Democracy" contest will present his speech. The local contest is being sponsored by Wheeling Township Jaycees.

Tom Bowersox was selected winner in the Jaycee "Voice of America" contest. Joan Prouty and Kay Bressner tied for second place. Carol Glaeser was third.

Try-outs, under the direction of Larry Jenness, Arlington Heights speech teacher, were held at the high school last week.

The speeches of each participant were recorded by tape recorder for purposes of judging. Judges were Stuart Paddock Sr., editor and publisher, Rev. Stevens of Mount Prospect Baptist church, and Ed Klicker, Jaycee vice-president.

AN RCA automatic record player, donated by RCA, a radio clock, donated by Grigsby-Allison, a table model radio, donated by Shelkop Electric, Master Electric, and the Wheeling township Jaycees, and a gift certificate, donated by Arlington Radio and Record shop, are the prizes to be awarded to four winners.

In addition to the presentation of the winner's speech, the program will also include several numbers by the barber shop quartet under the direction of Joe Bryson, and a talk entitled "The Permanent Revolution" by Ted C. Seiler, Jaycee board member and former high school teacher.

Rod McLennan and Don Carmichael, contest co-chairmen, stressed that the only requirement for admission is a willingness to listen. The jaycees sincerely hope that many citizens will be interested enough in the ideas of young Americans to turn out and lend an ear to the "Voice of Democracy."

Shop Center Between Dunton - Evergreen In Planning Stage

Members of the breakfast club Tuesday morning had the opportunity to glance over the plan of a shopping center between Dunton and Evergreen sts., on property owned by N. M. Lattof. Entrance to the stores, of which there will be five in addition to a large food mart, will be from the parking lot.

Commuters Praise Arlington's New Depot

Arlington Heights' rebuilt depot is receiving a lot of praise from commuters and others who have had a "look-in" of the nearly completed structure. It is not only modern in accommodaions, but also has a homey appearance.

The beauty of the exterior architecture of the orginal building has been maintained, while the interior approaches an elegance that is apart from the extreme modern design. The finishing touches are now being performed by workmen.

Blood Donors Respond To Plea; Injured Heights Girl Recovering

Martha Schaefer, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Schaefer, Arlington Heights, is recovering in St. Theresa hospital, Waukegan, from serious injuries received November 16.

An article in last week's Herald made a plea for blood donors. Mrs. Schaefer called this week to say that within a few hours after the paper hit the street the hospital had a sufficient number of blood donors. She and Mr. Schaefer are deeply grateful to all who volunteered and to those who gave blood.

The accident occurred at Gages Lake when an auto went out of control, jumped a curb, hitting Martha and crushing her against another auto parked at the curb. Her leg was broken in four places, and she suffered from numerous cuts and bruises. She received eight blood transfusions.

Arlington Joins Other Towns In Fight For Independence

The Tri-County Home Rule committee, organized two years ago, is preparing for a fight against Chicago. The proposal of the Chicago plan commission that the state legislature create a Greater Chicago authority to ultimately "take over" all of Cook county and parts of Lake, McHenry, Kane and DuPage counties, has the approval of a large Chicago newspaper, which through its news and editorial columns, has attempted to sell the idea to the suburban towns.

"We will fight Chicago to the limit," says Mayor Goedke. "Through the Tri-County Home Rule committee and the support of the downstate members of the legislature we ought to be able to stop the grab that Chicago is attempting."

Attorney Thal says, "Two years ago we were able to prevent the passage of an appropriation of $10,000 for the use of a committee to study legislation that would bring about establishment of a greater Chicago area. We expect to stop the present proposed legislation, if its proponents dare to present the authorization bill to the state legislature."

Alderman Carlisle told a reporter, "The land grab is not the only thing we are going to fight in the coming legislature. Our group will present a solid front against the plan to establish a payroll tax in Chicago, which would take another tax slice out of the pay checks of all commuters."

Mayor W. D. Wilson of Skokie, president of the home rule group, assured Paddock Publications Monday that practically all Cook county villages will be well represented in opposition to the proposed piece of legislation that is aimed to take away home rule from our villages and cities.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD that a steering committee composed of the heads of government of the larger towns with their legal staff, will direct the opposition fight.

The Chicago newspaper which has been encouraging the plan devoted its major editorial Monday morning to the advantages that it claimed would result by the co-ordination of all sewer and water service and police control in the proposed area.

The plan, when it was first presented, was camouflaged in the press with the thought that the authority would be able to build self supporting toll roads and other highways that are so greatly needed without taxing property owners. It painted a picture of a toll road program that would be self supporting.

A few days later, when the proponents thought the suburbs had swallowed the bait, use of Lake Michigan water was suggested. The next day, installation of a gigantic sewer and drainage system was proposed. It was then that there was the first mention of taxes.

One police system under the control of Chicago was the final suggestion. By this time the ire of the suburbs was aroused. At a meeting last Thursday of the Chicago plan commission, President Erickson of the county board told the erstwhile grabbers that he thought the suburbs ought to be consulted.

THE PLAN commission could do nothing else than to appoint a special committee to meet with the heads of the suburban communities. That is the present status of the kidnapping plan. The mayors are waiting to hear from that committee.

The throat-hold that the Chicago Transit Authority has upon the pocketbooks of bus and street car riders of Chicago is an example of what could happen in the suburbs.

A few pieces of legislation could create the Greater Chicago authority which would have a tremendous assessed valuation, allowing it to issue bonds in large amounts, requiring new taxes.

The farmers, who are the largest taxpayers in Cook county, might have new burdens put upon their shoulders, requiring them to pay for improvements they do not need. Such a program might wipe out the farming industry in Cook county unless land devoted to farming purposes is given a free ride.

The schools are being left out of the plans of Chicago group. The school tax head was not attractive to the money-rollers. The villages are not so encumbered with bonds and the promoters probably think it would be easy picking, taxwise and graftwise.

Arlington Man Killed At Rail Crossing

Mervin Travis, 66, of 1115 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, was killed instantly Monday night when he hit the side of a westbound flyer at the Evergreen crossing of the Chicago and North Western railroad.

An eye witness, Mrs. Harold Framberg, 3 N. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights, told the coroner's jury she saw Travis walk around the crossing gate, and then proceed to run across the tracks, apparently trying to beat the train. He hit the side of the diesel, approximately five feet from the front of the engine.

LT. ELMER KARSTENS and Officer Fred Mueller of Arlington Heights police department, investigating the accident found the body approximately 130 feet west of the crossing. Dr. E. A. Elfeld was summoned, who pronounced the man dead.

George Nelson, Kendal, Wis., fireman on the diesel, told the jury he saw the man start across the tracks and realized he couldn't make it. He told the engineer, who set the brake. The train was brought to a stop about two train lengths away. It carried 14 cars, and was traveling about 60 miles an hour.

Foster L. Travis, son of the deceased, told the jury his father was an interior decorator, was in good health, his hearing was good and his eyesight fair. He made his home with his son and family.

The jury brought in a verdict of accidental death at the inquest held at Black's Memorial Home Tuesday morning.

The deceased was born in Yonkers, N. Y., June 1, 1886. He has lived in Arlington Heights approximately two years. Besides his son, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Jean Robinson, also of Arlington Heights, and three grandchildren.

Village Dads Seek Supt. Of Public Works

A commissioner of public works for Arlington Heights will probably be appointed in the near future. This year's appropriation ordinance authorized filling the position. His responsibilities would be direct control over all village maintenance (including the water, sewer and street departments); and new municipal construction as well as the building department.

The fiscal affairs of the village, including the office of the village clerk, treasurer, police and fire departments would not be effected by the delegation of this authority.

The village code of 1929 provides for a commissioner of public works, which is quite similar to a village manager, and it is the consensus of opinion of the members of the village board that the present size of Arlington Heights requires the services of a professional. Such a move would enable the board to be of greater service to the public as well as realize economies in performing municipal services.

New Industry To Move American Headquarters To Arlington Heights

Announcement was made this week that the Howard Rotavator Co., sole agent in America for a line of British-made rotary cultivators will be moved from Baltimore to Arlington Heights December 1.

It is understood that they have leased all of the Crop Saver building. Michael P. W. Stone, who has been western representative of the company, is president of the company.

The American company has grown rapidly since it was organized in 1948. From $100,000 in 1949, sales have jumped to close to $2 million this year, with more than 500 dealers and distributors throughout the country.

Roth Manufacturing Signs Commitments For Construction Of Factory

Roth Manufacturing Co. has signed commitments of the architectural work and construction of their proposed factory at Arlington Heights. The building contractor is A. L. Jackson Co., Chicago. The architects are Graham, Anderson, Probst and White.

In a recent survey of employees, William Keeran, general manager of the company, found that over 65% of present employees will accompany the company to Arlington Heights. A majority of them may continue to reside at their present abode, but others will be in the market for homes in this area.

St. Theresa Plans $250,000 Catholic School for Palatine

Plans for a $125,000 campaign to provide funds for construction of a parochial school in St. Theresa parish, Palatine, were announced Wednesday by Rev. Arthur O'Brien, pastor of St. Theresa church.

"We have decided that now is the time for action in the matter of how to resolve our educational needs," Father O'Brien declared.

"Through a united effort by members of St. Theresa parish, we can build this vital institution of our faith," he added. "There are some 300 Catholic children of grade school age in our parish, and it is up to us to provide for them the educational facilities which are so greatly needed."

Preliminary organization of a campaign committee to direct the drive already has begun, Father O'Brien said. The committee, he explained, will be made up of more than one-third of the Catholic men of the parish.

Father O'Brien said present plans call for a new school designed to accommodate more than 400 students in grades 1 through 8, to be constructed on church property on N. Benton st., a few blocks from St. Theresa church.

Construction would begin in the spring of next year, with the school to open its doors in 1954.

"Much study has been given to plans submitted by various architects," Father O'Brien said, "with special attention going to obtaining the most modern educational facilities, in keeping with rigid economy, in a building of good taste in modern design—not a stereotyped copy of hundreds of other schools."

The structure is to be of one story with full basement. It will be erected in an "L" shape, constructed of brick and Bedford limestone.

THE SCHOOL will house eight classrooms, a library, music room and office space on the ground floor. The basement will house a combination children's play room and parish hall, with a kitchen and cafeteria in the main wing. The playroom and parish hall will incorporate a separate and adjoining chapel, situated so the entire basement may be used for religious services.

The ground floor also will provide rest and study space for the teaching Sisters, who will be of the Sisters of Christian Charity.

"We are a growing parish in a growing community," Father O'Brien observed. "But our material progress is nothing without a similar growth in the institutions of our faith. Our very progress has thrust upon us the only decision we could honestly make," he added.

Every wage-earning and income-receiving Catholic in the parish will be invited to share in the erection of this new structure, which not only will help the parish, but will help fill a need in the whole community, he added.

"Most of our children now attend the public school, which itself is becoming overcrowded," Father O'Brien explained. "The construction of our school, therefore, not only will solve a critical Catholic problem, but also will ease conditions in the Palatine public school."

FATHER O'BRIEN said the school will cost an estimated $250,000. This sum will be made available by the Archdiocese, he said, so that construction of the school may begin next spring. "The funds from the campaign will ease retirement of that loan as construction of the school progresses," Father O'Brien explained.

Father O'Brien said the decision "to provide educational facilities for the youth of our parish came after long and serious consideration of the situation. For many years there was little growth in Palatine, but now we are in the midst of an expansion which brings with it everlasting problems. Thus far we have done little more than take note of these problems and plan how to solve them.

New Chicagoland Has Nine Objectives

The rosy painted announcement of the Chicago Plan commission to introduce a bill in the state legislature that would unite all of Cook county and parts of adjoining counties into a Greater Chicagoland gave nine functions of the proposed authority as follows:

1. Toll road construction and operation.
2. Sewers Sewage treatment works and sewer system—a bigger sanitary district.
3. Water works and water distribution systems.
4. Airports and all facilities thereof.
5. Railroad terminals, including passenger, freight and warehouse facilities.
6. Harbor and port facilities.
7. Automobile parking lots, garages and parking meters.
8. Motor bus and truck terminals.
9. Suburban or interurban systems of transportation by rail or highway.

"The proposal," says Carl Gardner, executive secretary of the plan commission, is a step in the direction toward the eventual merger of most of the hundreds of little government bodies in this area.

"To initiate this development we don't want to get entangled in local politics. We can't start abolishing jobs. We don't want to arouse community prejudice in the suburbs.

"On the water program the metropolitan area can not continue to allow communities independently to tap a common water table that is sinking lower every year."

Furnace Fan Causes Heavy Smoke Damage

The home of H. Frette, Quentin rd., Palatine, was badly damaged by smoke early Saturday evening. None of the family was at home at the time, the fire being discovered by a neighbor.

The fire broke out in a utility room supposedly from a heating fan. That room and the kitchen were damaged by fire. Smoke did almost as much damage to the rest of the house. Mr. Frette returned home as the firemen were still on the scene. The fire fighters made good use of their smoke fan and light generator.

The same evening at 11:00 o'clock the firemen were called to a residence on Palatine rd., east of Chestnut st. Damage caused by an electric motor was confined to smoke.

The smoke fan also came into good use at the science room of the Oak st. school, Palatine, Thursday afternoon. Vandals had entered the room the previous evening. Among articles taken was a bottle containing phosphorus. It was found on the school grounds and had been returned to the science room when it was accidentally tipped over. When the chemical came into contact with air, there was a flash fire. No damage.

America In Miniature

The State of Maryland calls itself "America in Miniature" because of the geographic variety to be found within its borders. From the mountains of western Maryland with their mines and forests, the Free State sweeps to flat Chesapeake and Atlantic tidewater through rolling countryside suitable for dairying, orchardry, and many types of farming.

Appraise Land For Extension Of Route 83

Land along the right of way of the proposed extension of route 83 west of Mount Prospect is now being appraised, William T. Mortimer, county highway engineer reported this week.

The county board earmarked $100,000 for acquisition of the right of way, but must find the cash for building the road. It was suggested route 83 might be the first of a system of toll roads in Illinois.

Mortimer recently made a survey of the eastern toll roads, and William Erickson, president of the county board, is appointing a committee to study the possibility of this method of financing needed new highways in Cook county.

Toll bonds would be issued and retired with the revenue from use of the roads. Single toll stations would be set up at points where the traffic hits the congested area of the city. The Supreme court has cleared the way for toll roads in Indiana, and Wisconsin and Missouri are among the middle western states with toll roads.

Acquiring the land for the route 83 right of way is a long process, and perhaps by the time construction funds are needed, Mortimer said, toll roads will be possible in Illinois.

County Board To Honor Wililiam Busse For 50 Year Service

Cook County Board of Commissioners will honor William Busse for his 50 years service as a member of that body at a luncheon, the date of which will be announced next week.

President Erickson Tuesday morning eulogized Busse for the half century of service he has given the county. Other members adde their congratulations. bers added their congratulations. Busse starts Monday, December 1.

He was first elected to the board in 1900 and served continuously except for 1912-14 and was president of the board from 1907-10. The only time he was defeated was by the Bull Moozers of the Theodore Roosevelt area, whose activities resulted in a clean sweep by the Democrats. He will be 89 years of age next January 27. He is president and founder of the Mount Prospect State Bank. During his term as president the county building was built and Oak Forest institution was built.

He told his fellow members Tuesday morning "What success I may have in helping the people has been by the grace of God."

Three Injured In Head On Collision

Three persons were seriously injured in a head-on collision Saturday afternoon on Milwaukee ave., Wheeling, near Dr. E. L. Larson's office.

The injured are Stanley Sierminski, 5159 N. McVickers, Chicago, who suffered face and head injuries. It was necessary to call members of Wheeling fire department to extricate Sierminski from the wreckage. They also stood by in case of possible fire because of the oil and gasoline which drenched the road and wreckage.

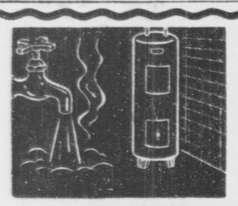

Jacob Wax, of 1318 Winnemac, Chicago, suffered internal injuries and Mildred Jerotz, 2139 W. Division st., Chicago, a passenger in the Wax car, suffered a broken arm and facial injuries. All were taken to St. Francis hospital, Evanston.

LIBRARY CORNER

by MRS. CHARLES KULE

Hours:
Monday - Tuesday - Thursday — 3-6 p. m. 7-9 p. m.
Wednesday - Friday - Saturday 9-12 — 1-6 p. m.

Dear Readers:

Here is a little resume on some of the things that have taken place at your library these past few months, and a few notes on current and future projects:

National Book Week at your local library was a huge success. Fifty-two new registrations were made, and 1,000 books were checked out during that one week period. The children's bright eager faces as they checked out the many new books were well worth the effort to have so many new books available for them at this particular time.

With the Christmas season almost here, many new Christmas books have been ordered, and will be on display and ready for circulation about December 1. There will be a Christmas tree too this year for the enjoyment of all of our library patrons, young people and adults.

SEVERAL LOCAL families have, during the past few weeks, made welcome and acceptable donations of good books to the library. Whether in the process of moving, or just making room for additional books on those already crowded book case shelves, if the books are in good condition and are good reading material, a good way to share them is to place them on your local library shelves for circulation.

Several valuable items have been left here, and are waiting to be claimed by the owners: one man's brand new cap; boys' caps; little girl's red purse; a pair of little girl's ear muffs. Owners may have them by asking for them.

Letters have been sent to all families living outside of the city limits, calling their attention to the fact that it is necessary to charge a non-resident fee of $2 per year per family. Many new communities and outlying districts have developed during the past few years. Inasmuch as the local library is tax supported by residents of Arlington Heights, anyone residing outside the village proper is required to pay a non-resident fee of $2 per year per family. This is the required procedure in all public libraries that are tax supported by local residents. For your information the boundaries are as follows: North, Thomas st.; South, Central ave.; East, Waterman ave.; West, Wilke rd.

We trust that all families residing outside the village limits will cooperate with the librarian and library rules regarding the payment of the non-resident fee.

"STEAMBOAT GOTHIC" by Frances Parkinson Keyes, author of "Joy Street" and "Dinner at Antoine's." In Steamboat Gothic, Mrs. Keyes tells not only the story of the great Louisiana plantations, but of the river which contributed so largely to their prosperity, their prestige and their splendor; a superb novel which is a great contribution to Americana because it is a great love story.

"Autumn Thunder" by Robert Wilder. The author knows his America and its people. He writes of it in vivid terms and in unforgettable pictures, with understanding, compassion and frankness.

"The Mountain and the Valley" by Ernest Buckler. This is a story of farm people in Nova Scotia, their dignity and their love and their loneliness.

"By His Own Hand" by Henry W. Clune. From its opening pages this extraordinary novel will hold you in its spell.

"For All Your Life" by Emilie Loring. A story of distinctive fabric, with romance, suspense and adventure as the warp and woof of her loom.

New mysteries: "Cruise with Death, "The Last Survivor." "The Court of Last Resort," "The Case of the Grinning Gorilla," "The Case of the Lucky Legs," "The Last Three" by Erle Stanley Gardner.

A new one-volume edition of the "Complete Works of William Shakespeare."

For the automobile mechanic a new revised edition of "Everyday Automobile Repairs" by William H. Crouse.

"The Wind Blows Free" by Loula Erdman for the teen-ager and the "Golden Stallion" by Shannon for the seventh or eighth grader.

Students Take Trip

W. Emerson Scott's colorful movie, "To The Arctic By Canoe," was viewed at a general assembly of Arlington Heights high school students, November 14, and was found to be interesting and educational.

The students learned that the Canadian government, like the United States, is interested in wild life conservation. One of the highlights of the film was a whale hunting trip, when students witnessed an actual capture and the killing of a whale.

Picturesque scenes taken along the Mackenzie river made one feel as though they were actually riding in the little red canoe in which the trip was made.

Gems of Thought

GOVERNMENT

God reigns, and will "turn and overturn" until right is found supreme.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

All overmuch governing kills the self-help and energy of the governed.

—Wendell Phillips.

The proper function of a government is to make it easy for the people to do good and difficult for them to do evil.

—Gladstone.

That is the most perfect government under which a wrong to the humblest is an affront to all.

—Solon.

Government is not mere advice; it is authority with power to enforce its laws.

—Washington.

No matter what theory of the origin of government you adopt, if you follow it out to its legitimate conclusions it will bring you face to face with the moral law.

—H. J. Van Dyke.

CONCRETE AIDS TO THE TEACHING OF ARITHMETIC

by WILLIAM A. HARNER

The super-markets of today are using new techniques to sell their products. They want to get the merchandise off the counter into the hands of the consumer. If the buyer can be made by some means or other to pick up a certain article, then the buyer considers the article his.

This same principle can be utilized in the teaching of arithmetic. We, as teachers, must be, among other things, good salesmen. We have to sell our subjects just as well as the merchants have to sell theirs. What better way to do this than to have the pupils make their own devices which show the desired relationships?

Using concrete aids in teaching is not a new idea. We have used counting sticks and halves of apples.

THE BEST materials are those which the pupils can make for themselves. Fraction-boards show the meaning of the common fractions; percentage boards show what per cents are and how they are used; place value scales show the meaning of place value in a concrete way; and paper folding shows size, shape, and position. These are some of the many devices which can be used to a great advantage. If the materials are put in the hands of the pupils, they see for themselves what is being taught.

While all this is true, we must not forget that all the aids which can be used and are being used are just aids. None of these take the place of the teacher. They are used to help the pupils move from the concrete to the abstract. It is a long road and the greater number of failures we can eliminate the stronger the foundations of our pupils.

Completes 40 Years

A combined service record of 99 years with Commonwealth Edison company was marked this year by the three Oas brothers, William A., Harry T. and Norman E. Wednesday, November 19, William A. Oas, 415 N. Lincoln Lane, Arlington Heights, paymaster for the company, celebrated the completion of 40 consecutive years of service. He started his career in 1912 as an office boy. Harry has worked 30 years and Norman 29 years in the utility's engineering department.

William Oas is a veteran of World War I, first commander of Elmwood Park Post No. 686 of the American Legion, past senior vice-commander and a member of the ceremonial committee of Commonwealth Edison Post No. 118. CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

The Thanksgiving service, sponsored jointly by the First Methodist, First Presbyterian and St. John Evangelical and Reformed churches, will be held tonight, Wednesday evening, at the Presbyterian church. It will begin at 8 p.m.

The service, which offers Protestants of various denominations a chance to worship together, will feature Rev. Birger Dahl of the Methodist church as the speaker. He is the new minister of the church, and this is the first time he has appeared at union services.

The adult and junior choirs of the Presbyterian church will sing. The service is open to the public.

Holiday Ball

Another holiday tradition, but of recent vintage, is the Thanksgiving Ball presented the night after Thanksgiving by St. John Episcopal church. Begun only last year, it was so successful that it has become a fixture of the St. John calendar—and, incidentally, on the calendars of many local people.

The dance will be held at Elmhurst Country club, starting at 9:30 and continuing until 1 a.m. Bill Walker and his orchestra will play. Tickets are $3.50 a couple.

St. John Episcopal church is located in Mount Prospect, and aims to serve those of that denomination who live there, in Arlington Heights or in Prospect Heights. In common with other churches and with all schools in this area, they too are suffering from growing pains and are fast outgrowing their church facilities. Proceeds from the dance, and from other projects, will be added to the building fund for the proposed new church.

Welcome

Two local people of prominence have recently accepted new responsibilities in community affairs.

William Gerbosi is the new member of the board of trustees, succeeding Harry Robinson, who has moved to Florida. Mr. Gerbosi headed the recent highly successful community fund drive, the first to be held in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. George Tuttle has returned to the Community Council as its secretary. She has previously served as president of the Council and as president of Arlington Heights Woman's club.

Winter Season

Winter season really arrives, it appears, Wednesday evening, for that is the night of the first high school basketball game of the 1952-53 year. Football is a thing of the past locally and the basketball team takes over the spotlight.

The opening game will be with Palatine, in competition for the Sleigh Bells trophy, awarded each year to the winner. The games—two, the frosh-sophs and varsity—will take place in the Arlington 4,000-seat gym.

that two competent baby-sitters will be on duty at the field house to care for pre-school children while the meeting is in session.

Pear Nutritious

One medium-sized pear will contribute 100 calories to a person's diet, as well as some amount of vitamin C, plus various minerals.

Heights Students Compete In National Talent Search

First drafts of eight National Talent search project reports have been completed by students of Arlington Heights township high school and are now being examined by the faculty.

December 8, the eight contestants will take the Science Aptitude Test, and their teachers will begin working on a detailed report and analysis of their high school careers. On the basis of these three items winners of national awards and honorable mention awards are selected.

THE EIGHT STUDENTS and their project topics are as follows: Robert Pearson, wood chemistry; Garwood Leckband, theory of space travel; Carrie Kadoyama, flies and insecticides; Don Bates, effect of air foil on climb of airplanes; Bob Cummisford, fabrication of a synthetic plasma substitute; Dick McAuliffe, sulphur; Norman Laubenheimer, water purefication.

Nine Persons Injured, One Critically, In Four Highway Accidents

A two-year-old boy was critically injured in a highway accident last Tuesday when the driver of the car in which he was riding lost control of the vehicle. The car, driven by Mrs. Mary Pattyn, 27, of Chicago was traveling north on State rd. near Golf rd., when Mrs. Pattyn, attempting to adjust a baby chair, hit the shoulder of the road and the car overturned.

The injured boy was Robert Schlenger of Chicago. Also injured was Mrs. Pattyn's son John, five months old. They were taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin.

Hinzman was hospitalized at St. Mary's Mission.

Three persons were injured in a crash at routes 45 and 58 on Friday when the car driven by James Logan, 41, of Elgin collided with the car driven by Dorothy De Chambers, 28, of Des Plaines.

Injured were Logan's wife, Beatrice, 41, and Victoria Kwiecienski and Betty Mueller, 21, both of Evanston who were passengers in the De Chamber's car. All were treated at St. Francis' hospital.

The day will be devoted to china painting, which is becoming increasingly popular with club members, and Christmas decorations, a subject of vital interest at this time.

Mrs. Joseph Lohr, chairman of the study group, will demonstrate how simple it is to paint not only dishes, but such things as buttons and other jewelry with original designs.

Simultaneously, Mrs. John Kehe, who has established a reputation for her artistic and unusual Christmas decorations, will demonstrate some of her ideas and how they may be made.

All club members are invited to drop in at this meeting any time between 10 and 3 if it is not possible for them to spend the entire day, and both Mrs. Lohr and Mrs. Kehe will be pleased to give them suggestions and assistance in either of these crafts.

Former Heights Girl, Jean Baldwin, Marries

The Community Protestant church, Mundelein, was the scene of the wedding November 15 of Miss Jean Baldwin of McHenry, former resident of Arlington Heights, and Keith Nickoley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nickoley of Libertyville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Vaughan Jones of McHenry.

Rev. Thomas S. Sampson officiated at the 7:30 p.m. ceremony. Warren Jones of McHenry sang "Calm As the Night," "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer" accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Albert Barbian, also of McHenry. Candelabra and baskets of white chrysanthemums formed the setting for the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Lloyd Baldwin, wore a gown of white slipper satin of her own design fashioned with a bodice of chantilly lace, an illusion neckline trimmed with scalloped lace, long pointed sleeves and a bouffant skirt with tiers of scalloped lace cascading down the back forming a short train. Her fingertip length veil of imported illusion was held in place by a cap of satin bands, and she carried a bouquet composed of a white orchid, stephanotis and streamers on a white keepsake prayer book.

Miss Andrea Kennedy of Arlington Heights was maid of honor, and Miss Rita Leibundguth of Downers Grove was the bridesmaid. Both attendants were classmates of the bride and are graduates of Evanston hospital School of Nursing.

Roberts Photo

They wore winter-berry red velveteen gowns fashioned with scalloped necklines and skirts of unpressed pleats. They carried round bouquets of pelargonium carnations with garlands of ivy.

Kenneth Nickoley of Flint, Mich., brother of the groom, was best man. Craig Baldwin, brother of the bride, and Jerry Andrews of Bedford, Ind., were the ushers.

The bride's mother wore a mink colored slipper satin cocktail suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage, and the mother of the groom wore a purple crepe dress with black accessories and an orchid corsage.

A reception for 290 guests was held in the church parlors immediately following the ceremony. Open house was held for a small group of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Vaughan Jones.

The couple are honeymooning for two weeks in Florida and Nassau, and after December 1 will make their home in Libertyville.

The bride was graduated from Arlington Heights township high school and from Evanston hospital School of Nursing. The groom was graduated from Lake Forest college and is now employed in Chicago.

The bride's parents entertained at a bridal dinner Friday night at The Rustic Manor in Gurnee.

Speaks Before Kenosha Youth

More than 500 Kenosha, Wis., children in fifth, sixth and seventh grades heard author, Mrs. Catherine Cleven of 506 S. Emerson st., Mount Prospect, speak when she made a two-day visit to Kenosha last week.

Mrs. Cleven, who attended grade school in Kenosha, gave six talks at the Lincoln Branch library in the morning and at the Boys' and Girls' library in the afternoon. She explained to the children how her new book, "The Secret of the King's Field," came to be written.

At an open house for 100 guests at the Boys' and Girls' library Tuesday night in honor of Mrs. Cleven, she met teachers, librarians, girl scout leaders and parents.

Mrs. Cleven's book is based on a true historial incident and narrates the adventures of a French peasant boy in the eighteenth century. The book won national recognition last year as the first prize winner in the Midwestern Writer's conference national writing contest.

Mrs. Cleven was the guest of Mrs. J. S. Altman, her sister-in-law, during her stay in the city. (AM

Married Sixty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bellmore, Wheeling, who were married 60 years last Friday, spent the day receiving calls from their friends, many of whom brought gifts and cards of congratulations.

With them were their children, Joseph Bellmore, who makes his home with them, and the Edward Bellmores, who also live in Wheeling. They received calls from their daughters, Eleanor Smith, Chicago, and Elizabeth Carter, Sullivan, Ind., who were unable to be with them on this important day.

The Bellmores, who were married in the Annunciation parish, Paulina and Waubansia, Chicago, have spent the past 56 years in Wheeling, where Mr. Bellmore operated and owned the Wheeling Barber Shop for 40 years. His son, Edward, took over when he became incapacitated.

Although Mr. Bellmore's poor health has kept him indoors for many years, they have been able to keep in touch with friends and neighbors through his wife, Susan. For 23 years she has belonged to the same ladies' card club, which presented her with a pin and bouquet of flowers at its last meeting. She has also been an active member of the Wheeling Camp of Royal Neighbors and was given special honors at the group's meeting last Thursday.

Mrs. Bellmore was born in Northern Ireland and Mr. Bellmore in London, Ontario, Canada. Mrs. Bellmore, always ready with her quick sense of humor, when asked where she was born said, "Even though I'm Irish, I haven't licked anybody yet."

The Bellmores have nine grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Favorites for Flavor

By LOIS SEILER

Turkey talk; we'll hear a lot of that tomorrow. Of course, old Tom will hold the center of attraction at the Thanksgiving dinner table, but here is a suggestion for a dessert that will be a close second in popularity.

Individual cream puffs, filled with ice cream and fashioned to resemble turkeys, are certain to delight your family and friends, and will add a unique note to the finale of that wonderful dinner.

This recipe for Turkey Puffs was suggested by Mrs. R. C. McLennan of Arlington Heights, who was formerly the editor of this column. The cream puffs are simple to make, and contain only five ingredients: water, butter, flour, eggs and salt.

The heads and necks, as well as the tails, for the turkeys are made out of the same dough, using a pastry tube to fashion these appendages.

After the cream puffs are baked, the tops are cut off and split in half to make the turkey's wings. The puffs are then filled with pink peppermint stick ice cream, the wings inserted at an angle, and the heads and necks (which are in one piece) attached at one end and the tails at the other. Cold fudge sauce is spread on top of the turkey between the wings.

For the fudge sauce, we suggest the excellent recipe submitted by Mrs. Tom Anning of Mt. Prospect and printed in this column last summer.

Try these delicious turkey puffs and see if they don't compete with the roast turkey as the conversation piece of the day.

Turkey Puffs

1 cup water
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
4 eggs
1 teaspoon salt

Combine butter and water and heat to boiling point. Add the flour and salt, stirring constantly until mixture leaves the pan and forms into a ball, about one minute. Remove from heat and cool.

Beat in eggs, one at a time, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Then beat mixture until smooth and velvety.

Drop from a tablespoon onto an ungreased baking sheet, forming six mounds, three inches apart. Save one-fourth of the dough for the necks and heads and tails.

Put the remainder of the dough into a pastry tube, using tip with the largest opening. To fashion necks and heads, make a question mark figure of the dough. Make six small dots for the tails.

Bake until puffed, golden brown and dry, about 45 to 50 minutes, in a 400 degree oven. (The necks and tails may have to be removed sooner). Allow to cool slowly.

After cool, cut off the tops of the cream puffs with a sharp knife. Cut tops in half for the wings of the turkey.

When ready to assemble, generously fill puffs with pink peppermint ice cream. Set wings in ice cream at an angle. Anchor neck at one end of the ice cream and tail at opposite end. Top with cold fudge sauce.

Fudge Sauce

3 squares bitter baking chocolate
1½ cups sugar
Few grains salt
1/16 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup evaporated milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons butter

Melt the baking chocolate in a heavy aluminum saucepan over low heat. Stir in the sugar, salt and cream of tartar.

Gradually add the cup of undiluted evaporated milk, stirring constantly. Continue cooking and stirring until this has come to a rolling boil.

Remove from stove, add vanilla and butter. Serve hot or cold.

Store in small jar with tight cover in refrigerator.

Weekly Recipe

Muffins are always welcome at breakfast, lunch or dinner. Served warm, they add glamor to your meal, and will satisfy every member of your family.

Banana Bran Muffins

1 cup wheat bran
1 cup all purpose flour
1 tsp. salt
½ cup sugar
1 tsp. soda
1 egg
4 tbspn. melted butter
2 cups ripe, mashed bananas
2 tbspn. buttermilk

Method: Sift together flour, salt, sugar and soda. Mix egg, butter, bananas and buttermilk well together; add banana mixture to dry ingredients and mix well. Add bran and mix enough to moisten all. Pour into well greased muffin tins. Bake is preheated oven at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

Yield: 12 muffins, medium size.

Carol Albrecht And John Saunders Are Wed

In a candlelight ceremony November 1, Miss Carol Albrecht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Albrecht of Palatine, became the bride of John Saunders, son of Merrill Saunders of Calumet City, Ill.

Rev. F. A. Hertwig officiated at the double ring ceremony held at 7:30 p. m. at St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran church, Schaumburg township. Mrs. F. A. Hertwig sang, "Bless This House," and "The Twenty-third Psalm." George Schlie, organist, accompanied the soloist and played the processional as the bridal party entered the church and the recessional as they left the altar. White mums decorated the altar and the same flowers made up the bridal bouquet which was centered with a white orchid.

The bride wore a gown of lace over satin fashioned with an illusion neckline and Peter Pan collar trimmed with sequins. The full skirt ended in a long train. A pearl trimmed headpiece held her fingertip length veil in place.

Miss Marlene Hartmann of Maple Park, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of coral net over taffeta fashioned with a satin bolero, and she carried a bouquet of white pompons.

The Misses Shirley and Joyce Albrecht of Des Plaines, cousins of the bride, and Miss Verdell Hildebrandt of Arlington Hts., were bridesmaids. They wore green gowns fashioned like that of the maid of honor and carried bouquets of yellow pompons.

Miss Jean Brackmann of Elgin and Miss Sandra Fasse of Palatine were the flower girls. They wore coral taffeta dresses and carried bouquets of white pompons.

Donald Schuring of Arlington Heights was best man.

Gerald Hartmann of Maple Park, Ronald Botterman of Palatine and Duane Dienst of DeKalb were the ushers.

Out-of-town guests were present from Green Bay and Milwaukee, Wis., and Muskegon, Mich. A reception for 300 guests was held at Benhart's hall in Roselle.

The couple are now making their home on a farm near Palatine.

THE CURIOUS SAVAGE

John Patrick's play, "The Curious Savage," itself a rare and curious mixture of mirth-provoking comedy combined with a heartwarming message, was capably presented by the senior class of Arlington Heights high school last Friday and Saturday evenings.

The play presented the story of Mrs. Ethel Savage, whose children committed her to a rest home in a vain attempt to gain control of the family fortune. Interwoven with the efforts of the friendly inmates to aid Mrs. Savage are searching comments on the conduct of people considered to be sane.

Outstanding in the cast of 11 were Nancy Scott, as the eccentric Mrs. Savage, and Barbara Maher in the role of Fairy Mae. Miss Scott displayed both intelligence and versatility in portraying the elderly millionairess. Miss Maher was successful in projecting the character of the young mental patient with delusions of beauty.

Sue Henning, with less than a half-dozen lines, proved again that no role is too small to be important. Miss Henning's attention to the detail of her characterization added much to the production. Beth Smith, Bob Cummisford, and Joe Dister were all enjoyable in their roles as inmates of the rest home.

Other members of the cast, all of whom performed with commendable enthusiasm, included Cynthia Fry, Paula Miller, Fred Welch, Bob Pearson and Paul Gustafson.

The cast, under the direction of Mrs. Sylvia Paulson, showed a considerable understanding of the basic problems of production. Every member of the cast was willing to wait for audience reaction, and only occasionally was there excessive action away from the center of interest. The inevitable muffed lines were handled with professional poise.

The stage crew, under the direction of Douglas Morrissey, constructed a pleasant set and overcame technical difficulties in coping with tricky lighting problems. Morrissey was assisted by Dave Karstens and Mark Creviston, sound effects; Tom Hawk, lighting; Darlene Chidley, properties; Carol Hoffie, publicity; Carolyn Hinneberg, makeup, and Jean Beatty, costumes.

Kay Bressner was in charge of programs and Darlene Maierhofer handled tickets. Rick McDonald did the art work, and Herbert Beyer and Kay Bressner served as assistants to the director. Dance music was played before and after the play and during intermissions by a high school group known as the Rhythm Aces.

Presenting The Younger Generation

Newcomer

This bright, smiling young face belongs to Marvette Lane Kort, tiny daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Kort of 810 N. Chestnut ave., Arlington Heights. The Kort family recently moved from Park Ridge to their new home.

Marvette is 16 months old, has dark brown hair and blue eyes. "She is still a rattle lover," explained Mrs. Kort, "and hasn't a favorite teddy bear or toy as yet." This little one is just starting to walk by herself and finds television knobs especially fun to pull up on.

Grandparents of Marvette are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Madsen of Chicago.

School Girl

And next is the pretty blue-eyed, curly brown-haired granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adam of 410 N. State rd., Arlington Heights. She is 5½ year old Irene Baker.

"Irene attends kindergarten at the North school," stated Mrs. Adam, "and likes it very much." Kindergarten "homework" is a lot of fun for this busy little school girl and enjoyed as much as her favorite teddy bear. Irene has two older sisters, Dawne Rae, 9 years old, and Betty Bee, 4.

Almost Two

Here is a tiny tot from Palatine. He is Jackie Schielie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schielie of 121 W. Wood st.

Jackie has blond hair, hazel eyes and was 20 months old when this picture was snapped. We are sorry that we were unable to contact his parents for further information.

Little Charge

That is a little charge of dynamite could well be the description of the energetic fellow pictured next. George L. Karle is the 13-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Karle of 346 N. Benton st., Palatine.

Little George has blond hair, blue eyes and a generous supply of pep. He was walking at 9 months and practically runs all the time now. He has a favorite doll and teddy bear and did have a dog, but it had to be taken away as the dog was afraid of George!

Although this little fellow hasn't seen his daddy who is serving in the army in Japan, he knows Daddy's picture when he sees it.

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Karle of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Selma Deering of Palatine are the grandparents.

Baptized Recently

Karen Marie Schwind, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland J. Schwind of Prairie View, was baptized November 16 at St. Mary's church, Buffalo Grove. Rev. George Ballweber officiated.

The baby, who was born October 30, 1952, was baptized in her mother's christening dress and wore a hand crocheted bonnet trimmed with ribbons from her mother's wedding bouquet.

Her sponsors were Mrs. Mike Horcher of Prairie View, her maternal grandmother, and Alphonsus Schwind of Mt. Prospect, her paternal grandfather.

Dinner was served at the home of the parents for the baby's grandparents, friends and relatives. (MCW

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Gratitude, based on an understanding of the true nature and character of God—infinite good, who gives bounteously and unstintingly to all ready to receive His blessings, will be explained in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Thursday, November 27. The title of the Lesson-Sermon will be THANKSGIVING.

The Golden Text is from Psalms (96:1) "O sing unto the Lord a new song: sing unto the Lord, all the earth."

Lesson-Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include the following:

"Thine, O lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all . . . Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name" (I Chron. 29:11, 13).

Selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech . . . If Mind was first chronologically, is first potentially, and must be first eternally, then give to Mind the glory, honor, dominion, and power everlastingly due its holy name" (pp. 3, 143).

NEW SONG OF THE RAILS

Anna Steinhof uses a tuning fork to test the pitch of one of the North Western Railway's new 5-chime musical air horns. With ninety new diesel locomotives being delivered to the North Western this year, the "song of the rails" is acquiring a new note in the interest of harmony as well as safety and the diesel locomotive seems to have acquired a "voice" as distinctive to its day as the "whistle in the night" was yesterday. The air chime sounds an A-major Seventh Chord (C-Sharp, E, G, A, and C-Sharp).

Costs Of Operating Luxury Air Liners A Luxury At 51 Million Dollars A Year

While housewives may find the cost of living greater now than at any time in history, it is a paltry sum compared with what it costs an airline to provide luxury accommodations for its passengers at no extra charge.

To prove the point Northwest Airlines lists the cost of a few items on the huge double-deck airplane.

The Stratocruiser itself is a $2,000,000 airplane without accessories. Each of its four 3,500 horsepower engines cost about $100,000.

THEN TO BEGIN with small items first, every seat ashtray costs $14.40 and it requires 75 to each plane. Fittings for the ashtray are listed at $116.00 each, while drinking glass holders are $6.77; stirwell retaining rope, $11; stairwell handrail, $70.75; luxury compartment, $1,192; seat armrest, $192; seat covering, $40 and carpeting (per yard) $5.88.

The total cost of parts and supplies the airline must keep on hand at all times, including 50,000 parts for the Stratocruiser alone, amounts to about $11,500,000. A main landing gear, for example, sets the company back to the tune of $5,454.29, while an entire propeller assembly costs $13,076.25. Tires on a Stratocruiser are priced at $326.11 and four are needed plus a couple for the nosewheel. There are 35 cells on a Stratocruiser ranging from $125 to $339 each.

GENERATORS are a "mere" $415.51, starters $194.57, nose gear steering cyclinders $507, each of the 28 valves needed in one Stratocruiser engine $88, and batteries $73.62.

On its domestic coast-to-coast airline system and routes to Hawaii, Alaska and the Orient, Northwest pays an annual laundry bill of more than $18,000. That amount goes for cleaning of items that make Mr. and Mrs. Passenger and all the little passengers comfortable, such as 2,000 blankets, 30,000 head-rest covers, 700 pillows, 17,000 small pillow slips, 25,000 linen handtowels, 600 berth sheets and 1,000 large slips.

NWA also provides about 300,000 paper towels on its planes during a 12-month period plus 15,000 boxes of cleansing tissue, 214,000 bars of soap and 83,000 individual containers of hand lotion.

BABY PASSENGERS account for about 8,000 disposable diapers, while their older brothers and sisters use up 500 comic books a month on Orient flights. Their parents slip their feet into some 5,000 paper slippers for the ride from Seattle to Tokyo and the airline has 250 electric razors aboard to remedy dad's "four o'clock shadow." Card playing passengers use up about 500 decks of cards a year. Everything is furnished through the courtesy of the airline.

Gasoline used on a Stratocruiser is no small item either. The giants use about 520 gallons an hour and at 39 cents a gallon, it costs $1,500 for the flight from Chicago to Seattle. Although the Stratocruiser tanks will hold 7,790 gallons of gasoline, a sufficient amount to keep an auto running a lifetime, tanks are rarely filled.

THE GROSS WEIGHT of the Stratocruiser is 75 tons, or about the same weight as 37 Packard automobiles. Top of the tail is nearly three stories high and the wings will just about stretch over three 50-foot lots. From the nose to the tail, it measures 110 feet, four inches.

Inside the cabin, there is room for 61 people in the luxury compartment plus another 14 in the lower deck lounge. For long flights, sleeping berths are available.

With a full load, the stratocruiser's maximum cruising speed exceeds 340 miles an hour, and it can fly at an altitude in excess of six miles. It is also capable of flying a quarter of the way around the world without stopping.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumotoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

Bits O' Business

Flotations of new issues of stock raised only $3 billion of the $90 billion in capital added by American firms in the last five years, the department of commerce reported. Retained earnings provided $38 billion, depreciation allowances $18 billion, borrowings most of the rest. . . . Steel mills operated in October at 106 per cent of rated capacity, a pace that would turn out 115 million tons of ingots and castings in a year. . . . The first German automobiles in 13 years have reached Canada. They are the famous Volkswagens, the people's car for which the Nazi government collected billions of marks in down payments, then didn't deliver because the war began. . . . A hundred American companies got certificates of necessity from DPA in the week of November 5 for building plants—$105 million worth of them, all told. . . . Unemployment declined to a new low in October, the census bureau reported. . . . The national foreign trade council demanded tariff reductions to expand U. S. trade.

Many Grade School Teachers Serve Without State OK

Less than 50% of the elementary school teachers of the northern 24 counties of Illinois hold teaching certificates which meet full state requirements, according to a survey just reported by Dr. Joseph Clettenberg, formerly of Palatine, director of extension at Northern Illinois state teachers college.

This survey, made by two graduate students under Dr. Clettenberg's direction, is based on a questionnaire which gathered returns from 9,216 teachers of the area.

The report shows that Cook county had 80% of its elementary teachers teaching with a bachelor's degree, required for a full standard of certification in Illinois; and of the counties surveyed, Putnam county had the lowest figure—8% without a four-year degree.

The same survey, reporting on the preparation of the high school teachers of the same area and obtaining a reply from 4,704 teachers, showed that less than 4% of the high school teachers lack the bachelor's degree while as many at 62% in some counties hold both the bachelors and masters.

The difference in the levels of preparation in the high school and elementary school, Dr. Clettenberg said, reflects the desperate shortage of elementary school teachers and the unfortunate necessity for school boards to accept teachers of less than a full training standard.

Hunter Dies Of Heart Attack

Charles P. Powell, 39, of Forset Lake, suffered a heart attack last week while pheasant hunting on a farm near Lake Zurich, and died before services of a physician could be obtained.

Powell and a companion, C. E. Huff, also of Forest Lake, were hunting when Powell complained of feeling ill. He sat down to rest, while Huff continued to hunt. Upon Huff's return, the two men made their way back to the farmhouse and as Powell was not feeling any better, they decided to visit the family physician. When they reached the doctor's office, however, they found he was out on a call. Another doctor was summoned and he pronounced Powell dead.

Fluoridation Issue Stirs Park Ridge

A delegation of citizens opposing the fluoridation of Park Ridge drinking water appeared at a recent city council meeting. The board has been reportedly tabling the matter and Mayor Haake attempted to get some action on the matter.

One letter read to council members asserted the American medical association has never taken a stand against fluroidation.

Ballots in Park Ridge newspapers have been returned by readers with the majority not favoring the proposition.

Comfort Conditioning Method Of Heating In New And Old Homes

Remember to include comfort conditioning in your home modernization plans. This is a suggestion made by the national warm air heating and air conditioning association.

Many devices are currently available to the home owner that will do either a seasonal or year-round air conditioning job. These mechanisms range from extremely expensive and complicated units to simplified units produced for the mass consumer market.

The most popular form of indoor comfort system today is that known as the warm air winter air conditioning system. It is acknowledged by heating authorities as the simplest, least complicated method now available to provide for unified control of air temperature, humidity, circulation, distribution, dust, and odors.

Humidifiers built into these systems automatically provide the proper amount of humidity necessary in the house, eliminating the discomfort of desert dryness which generally accompanies winter heating.

The duct work installed for a warm air winter air conditioning system is readily adaptable for distributing cool air throughout the house when the home owner's budget permits his adding a summer cooling unit to his system. And the new arrangements of duct layout that have been found, under stringent test, to perform virtual comfort miracles when installed in older homes.

Most noteworthy of these new systems for installation in the older house is the warm air perimeter heating system. Designed to overcome the number one comfort upsetting problem in homes — the cold floor — the perimeter system may be easily installed in the older house with a minimum of fuss and bother. Warm air registers are located under the windows and create an envelope of warm air between the rooms and the outside walls and windows which, it has been found, are the prime sources of drafts and cold floors in the wintertime.

In The Future

Clothing that keeps insects away without effort by its wearer is on the way. The army has devised an odorless and colorless insect repellent for spraying on cloth during manufacture, and when army needs are cared for it will be licensed for sale to civilians. . . . A portable home broadcasting set has appeared in the Christmas toy line of a Chicago manufacturer. It will broadcast through any set at a distance of 75 feet or less, and costs only $9.95. . . . Shoe manufacturers, encouraged by the welcome given nylon mesh shoes when they first appeared last spring, will be back next year with fabric uppers of gold, red and bright blue. . . . Sprayed-on green tinting to kill windshield glare will baffle helpful filling station attendants. It's put on by pressing a button on its container, but it won't wash or wipe off.

The Valuable Paper Problem

Malibu Beach, Calif. — One thing our house has in profusion is the valuable paper. In fact, there are stacks of valuable papers stuck around the house in closets, bureau drawers and other out of the way places. Remote as these places are to me, the handsome helpmate feels they are not remote enough. She suggests the trash can as a suitable remote place to put them. To this I can't agree.

* * *

I have tried to explain to her that the government might decide to investigate the whereabouts of those 42 B-17's I signed a receipt for in England in 1943. I certainly don't want to be held liable for 42 B-17's at $250,000 a throw. How do I know where they are or what happened to them. But I've got the receipt signed by the base I turned them over to—in case anyone asks me. Suppose some obscure government clerk can find no record of what happened to 5,000 electric flying suits I was charged with taking from England to a supply depot in Italy. Let him ask me. Go ahead, I dare him. I've got the orders that sent me there and the receipt some PFC signed on delivery. My feminine partner just can't seem to realize our whole future might depend on any one of these papers.

* * *

She scoffs when I point out that insurance company might some day demand to see the receipted premium, under which they paid a claim on a burned rug. This was in 1938, but you never know. In matters of this kind, her inherent recklessness and daredevil attitude make life difficult.

* * *

There is only one way to defend yourself in a case like this and that is to go on the offensive. It didn't take much rooting around to find a pile of recipes, six inches high, that she is some day going to paste in a scrapbook. In what passes for her sewing room I found patterns that can only be described as "old look" designs inasmuch as the hems came to her knees. When I taxed her with this discovery, she only shrugged and said the styles will come back again. Regretfully I must admit she is, doubtless, absolutely correct. But, I could fill 40 houses with gimmicks from the stack of better living magazines she is saving. It would take a month just to look through them. She says you never know when you can use one of those ideas.

Oh, well, maybe I can find room in the garage for my valuable papers. I'm certainly not going to throw them away.

In the Shadow of + + + The Steeple

by William O. McGill

If a Pilgrim father was fortunate, he had enough wood cut to last him through the winter, perhaps the New England drafts through the chinks of his house were not excessive. If he had been especially fortunate there was not a new grave near his house; his family was present to shiver near him in the cold of the Massachusetts winter. Possibly the crops had been sufficient to suggest that they might have enough to eat until about April when the streams and forests would again begin to yield fish and game for the Pilgrim table.

Life for the early settlers who gave us the tradition of a day of Thanksgiving was decidedly a struggle. Many times they had been through the service of burial in "The Book of Common Prayer," and they well knew the petition which reads, "in the midst of life we are in death: of whom may we seek for succour, but of Thee, O Lord, who for our sins art justly displeased?"

BUT IN THIS situation, which to us would be oppressive, in which many of us would say, "How can there be a God of goodness when there is so much suffering around us? How can we speak of a kindly God when so many of us are in danger of losing our health and our lives?"—in this situation of danger and almost-despair, they called for a day of thanksgiving to God for all His mercies.

Our God of grace and love does not plan to treat us as thoughtless parents sometimes treat their children, lavishing every possible gift upon them so that they may be happy, and not "miss out on all the things I didn't have when I was a child." Maturity did not come to us by getting our own way all the time.

Maturity of soul is not measured by all that we have received. It is more readily measured by how well we manage with what we do not have. Who can thank God for patience who has never resisted the opportunities to be impatient? Who can truly thank God for his food—the man who always eats as well as he may wish, or the man who is aware how close he usually is to not having food for the morrow? Maturity of soul as suggested by a sense of the eternal desire of God for His children and by our contemporary recognition of our neighbor's claims upon us, such maturity of soul grows in men's hearts through days of trial and effort.

AND MEN, facing the threat of winter, of scant food supply, of dread disease ravaging their settlement, take time out for a day of Thanksgiving.

While you are preparing to celebrate, take a few moments to ask the big questions—what are the experiences of my life which I should least like to do without? What are the parts of my life which have made me what I am, and that for which I ought most to be thankful?

A CART for the large kitchen

AN EXTRA TABLE for the small kitchen

Is your range out of date?

Much of the space next to the oven and broiler has been wasted ever since you demanded the table-top type of range. Drawers take up too much room in being drawers, and bins or compartments are awkward.

Wheel-about DOES A DOUBLE STORAGE JOB! It has twice the usable space for utensils—two shelves for pots and pans, plus a shallow drawer for kitchen knives, spoons, spatulas. And it is also a cart table that stores itself in the very space usually badly utilized in the range.

Wheel-about comes only with Famous Universal Gas Ranges! America's leading moderate-priced quality cooking appliance for almost a century. With such exclusive refinements as an all-chrome broiler pan, a radiant broiler burner, a light in the oven, and Simmer-Save Keep-Warm top burners. They will outperform any range, using any fuel, in boiling, baking, roasting and broiling. It is a GAS range.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

The newspapers are full of war, murder, death, selfishness, greed and horror. When I read about it, a feeling of cynicism creeps into my heart, and a little tinge of fear. Then I read about a little girl of thirteen months who was blind, and now can see.

She can see because some folks cared. Somehow, these old hearts of ours, toughened and scarred with the grim task of making a living, manage to keep a tender spot in them where love can live.

THE LITTLE tyke's parents cared, of course. She was fortunate in being born to folks who loved her, loved her very much, so much they were willing to save and scrimp and work day and night that she might see again. She was fortunate that there are people who can take time out from living to love and care. Fortunate that God looked down and saw the goodness and love in her parents' hearts, and that He spoke to the hearts of those who helped her. That God looked down and cared.

There isn't much a fellow can say about people like this and parents like hers, because it is a thing that can only be told by the way your heart feels, and the heart has a language all its own.

BUT I GUESS there are lots of people scattered around who care; only you don't read much about them. When you do, it makes you happy with a happiness that pushes upward from deep inside until your throat aches with the lump that is swelling there.

A fellow likes to think of people being like that all over the world, because unless people are that way, this "world wide mess" is going to get worse and worse as time goes on. Peace will come when a common feeling and a common hope and love lives in the hearts of all mankind.

THE BIBLE says "Love your enemies," and if a man strikes you on one cheek, turn him the other also. But when the enemy strikes you with machine guns and hand grenades, there is no cheek left to turn.

I guess as long as nations have leaders who do not know Christ, there is little hope for peace. But just the same, it's nice to know that some people cared, and a little blind child can see.

Weekly Recipe

Children, and growups as well, enjoy taffy apples. They are so good, and you can make them in your kitchen with very little trouble. Once you prepare these special treats, you will want to make them often. This week's recipe will make enough taffy to cover nine apples.

Taffy Apples

1½ cups granulated sugar.
1½ cups brown sugar.
3/4 cup cream.
3 tablespoons butter.
3/4 cup boiling water.
9 apples.
9 wooden skewers.

Melt three-quarter cup of the granulated sugar over a direct flame. Add the boiling water and cook to a smooth syrup. In a separate pan cook the cream with remaining sugar and butter to the soft ball stage (235 degrees). Combine the two syrups and cook until drops of syrup will form a hard ball in cold water — or to a temperature of 250 degrees. Cool the syrup to lukewarm. Place apples on skewers and twirl them in the carmel syrup. Dip them in ice water immediately to harden the caramel.

PURPOSE IN LIVING

Dear Mr. Truxell:

Your column often carries many penetrating observations and truths about life, but it seems your mind lacks a purpose in living.

After all, this country calls itself Christian which means a belief in what Christ teaches. Christ teaches that we must love each and every person because he has a human soul like to God's and is capable of enjoying heaven for all eternity.

If one partner in a marriage is cruel or domineering or all the other faults you mention, the other partner needn't die young because of this. All he has to do is apply Christ's principles of "do good to those who persecute you," "pray for those who calumniate you," "love your enemy," and treat that partner with patience, love, kindness, consideration, meekness and all the other virtues and he will find a great peace of soul and contentment in his good acts (regardless of another's treatment) which will probably lengthen his life—not shorten it.

The trouble with the people you mention in your column and in fact all over the world is that they have lost sight of real Christian principles and then render tit for tat to anyone doing them harm.

Because of Adam and Eve's downfall we all have a proclivity to evil but can overcome this in ourselves and others by living Christ-like lives.

It's not a matter of loving others because we want them to keep alive, but because they have an immortal soul which will either be punished or rewarded for eternity.

A. C. Dado,
R. F. D., Roselle.

IS THIS A RACKET?

Since your paper has rendered valuable community service in the past, I am sending this item to you with the hope that you will use the columns of your paper to expose some of these mail-order rackets that are bleeding the unwary public in the name of charity.

It is very possible that many of your readers are receiving these articles through the mail and I would appreciate seeing your comments on action to be taken thereon by the recipients.

Of course, I have heard many times that one is not obligated to return or pay for any article that is sent unsolicited, but I wonder if all of your reading public are also acquainted with that fact.

Yours very truly,
C. F. Sommerfield.

A letter sent to the Chicago Better Business Bureau by Mr. Sommerfield reads in part as follows:

Gentlemen:

"I recently received in the mail a letter from the National Kid's Day Foundation, signed by Jimmie Fidler as president and enclosing a fountain pen for which they want a donation of $1.50. The address is shown as 6381 Hollywood blvd., Hollywood 28, California.

"My attention has been called to a recent article in the Wall Street Journal in which it was exposing facts about the men who recently bought control of RKO and in which Ralph E. Stolkin was charged with touching fingers with Hollywood through a philanthropic organization, the "National Kid's Day Foundation."

"The Journal points out that the Foundation turned its money raising over to Empire Industries, a Chicago direct-mail concern of which Stelkin is president. From the Foundation's beginning in June 1948 to June 30, 1952, Empire collected heavy contributions totaling $650,626, but the cost of making the mailings and opening the returns was put at $652,585. Thus the public chipped in nearly two-thirds of a million dollars, but the Foundation appeared to be $1,959 the poorer, and of course the "kids" got nothing.

"The Journal further revealed that this was not all clear profit for the Empire Co. since the money collecting job was shared with Gayton Associates headed by Abraham L. Koolish, the father-in-law of Stolkin and who, I am told, has been in trouble with the federal trade commission, justice department, P. O. authorities and better business bureaus."

The reply:

"National Kids' Day Foundation, 1765 N. Gower st., Hollywood, Calif. Incorporated in that state June 18, 1948, as a non-profit charitable organization, with the asserted purpose of helping underprivileged children.

The Foundation is currently mailing unordered merchandise (fountain pens), together with letters appealing for donations of $1.50, signed by Mrs. Bob Hope. The pens are sent out by Gayton Associates, Inc., 705 W. Washington st., Chicago. Other unordered merchandise campaigns recently have been conducted from this same address.

The Chicago Better Business Bureau has directed a letter to James M. (Jimmie) Fidler, president of National Kids' Day Foundation, requesting pertinent data regarding the stimated amount the Foundation will realize from this venture, and approximately how much Gayton Associates, Inc., will receive for its services. To date, such information has not been received.

L. S. Slayton of Gayton Associates, Inc., has informed the Bureau that between 60,000 and 70,000 pens have been mailed. However, Gayton Associates, Inc., have not yet replied to the Bureau's request asking what percentage of returns—based on previous experience—might be expected from such mailings.

A letter to the Los Angeles Better Business Bureau from the Foundation's executive secretary, Charles C. Pettijohn, advises that ". . . as yet the results are inconclusive and we do not have sufficient information to know if the plan is workable or not.

✦ Just Around The Corner ✦

from PATTY McARDLE

Dear Peg:

FOR the past couple of weeks, Megan has been telling me about the "big bad wolf" who evidently lives in her closet. When she first told me about it, I wasn't sure whether she was frightened or delighted, for Laurel (her little neighbor playmate) and she would slip up quietly to the closet door, peek inside, then slam it shut and run out of the room squealing with pleasure.

However, observance of their actions made it clear to me, finally, that the "big bad wolf" was someone to fear and I wondered how this scary idea ever crept into their little minds . . . was it from listening to the story of "Little Red Riding Hood" or hearing the talk of the neighborhood children?

AT any rate, I wasn't terriby concerned until Meagan started demanding that we leave her door open at night, so that the "big bad wolf" wouldn't get her. Now, I was faced with a problem: was it better to assure her that there was nothing in her closet to harm her and insist on shutting her door, or let her have her door open, thereby condoning her fear.

Well, I had no further to go than our own book shelf to find the solution in my favorite child-raising book — a 35 cent pocket book edition of, "Baby and Child Care," by Dr. Benjamin Spock. Sure enough, right there in the index I found, "Fears around Three, Four and Five . . . 282."

IMAGINARY worries are common at this age . . . I think that some children are born more sensitive than others; and all children, no matter how carefully they are brought up, are frightened by something. If your child develops a fear of the dark, try to reassure him. This is more a matter of your manner than your words.

Don't make fun of him, or be impatient with him, or try to argue him out of his fear . . . Leave his door open at night if that is what he wants, or leave a dim light on in his room. It's a small price to pay to keep the goblins out of sight . . . When his fear subsides, he will be able to stand the dark again.

Although Dr. Spock says, in the forward of the book, not to take all that he talks about as "law," for he must of necessity speak only in generalities, and the baby's own doctor has the first and last word, this little book is a complete and invaluable source of really common sense information on the care of children from birth to adolescence.

I'LL bet I don't have to tell you anything more about this book, Peg, for no doubt you have one, but I wonder if you saw the article about Dr. Spock on the "Personality" page of Time magazine a short time ago. Can you imagine that four million copies of his pocket book have been sold in the past six years and if every mother who has bought one is using it, one out of every five newborn babies in the U. S. is a Spock baby!

Can't you remember when all babies were to follow a stringent schedule and discipline seemed more important than love? Then we finally heard and learned that babies should be treated like people and that cuddling was as important as cleanliness.

ALTHOUGH Dr. Spock was not the first one out with this new theory, he was the one better able than anyone else to show how it applied in the many, little, commonplace situations. It is evident in his book that he is well schooled in psychology as he is in pediatrics.

The easy manner in which he approaches each problem is designed to give more confidence to mothers, as well as guidance in their children's training. This manner of dealing with people, as friendly and comfortable as a country doctor's, carries over into real life. "He has few inhibitions and no intellectual pretensions. He likes to lecture informally, sitting on the edge of a table, and his earnestness and homely jokes win audiences varying from philanthropists to student doctors."

HIS own childhood was not a happy one. Born of strict, New England parents, he was brought up with toe-the-line discipline, seldom being allowed to do what other little boys did and suffering accordingly. He and his sister attended fresh air, private schools and learned folk dancing (much to the amusement of the public school boys). Fortunately, his well trained legs made him a track star at Andover, and at Yale he became one of the best oarsmen they ever sent to the Olympics. However, he has always felt of his Spartan childhood that although he turned out all right, many didn't under such rigid discipline.

As professor of child development in the medical school of the University of Pittsburgh, he no more takes private patients, but deals with thousands of children in schools, clinics and hospitals, always applying the basic theory underlying all of his advice: "Relax—love and enjoy them."

My love,

Patty.

TALES of the STREET

—T. C. HART

• SHORTENING DAYS

The days are really getting a lot shorter as the fall season draws to a close and within a month we will have our shortest day of the year when winter makes its official appearance.

Johnny Nelson is always glad to see the shortest day of the year come around. From then on, he says with the days getting longer, it always seems that we are getting closer to spring and that things can't be too bad for too long a time.

This kind of a fall has certainly been to most people's liking. George Butler has been threatening to head south for the Florida sunshine after the Christmas season, but he said the other day that if the sort of weather we had been having all fall was going to keep up, that it was good enough for him and that Florida wouldn't see anything of him.

• WINTER QUARTERS

The wild life that remains with us all winter is preparing for the winter season. The starlings are moving back into some of the hollow tree limbs that were inhabited by the squirrels all summer.

The starlings and the squirrels seem to have made some sort of an arrangement about housing facilities for there doesn't seem to be any arguments among them as the animals move to other quarters and the birds move in to the vacated premises.

• MILD WINTER

Meanhile the weather prophets are holding forth hopes for an open winter giving the loose corn husks, the caterpillars, and the field mice as their basis for the prophecy.

The corn husks were loose on the cob all during the ripening season, the caterpillars were around way late in the fall, and the field mice which usually start coming into civilization as winter nears are just now showing up around the homes.

Taking into consideration the fact that by this time last year we had one good month of severe winter already, it looks as if these signs might mean something.

On the other hand, last year the squirrels refused to lay up any food early in the fall acting as if they thought it was going to be an open winter and they could get food any time they wanted it. This fall by contrast the little animals were storing up nuts early in September as if looking for an early freeze up and look at what we've had.

Probably the only thing to do is just wait and see what we do get for the rest of the way.

• BARBERS

It seems that local barbers are having a losing streak lately. We read in the paper last week about one barber that lost a customer under a hot towel and we've been hearing a lot about a barber that nearly lost his shirt on the election.

It seems that this barber was so sure that Santa Claus and Stevenson couldn't be beaten, that he bet with his customers right and left, a free haircut if Eisenhower won, double price for a haircut if stevenson won. Besides all these "double or nothing" haircut bets, it is reported this fellow also had some other bets riding on the election — real, hard cash.

And then the irony of the whole thing, this barber who usually votes Democratic voted for Eisenhower himself after betting against him, and his wife who usually voted Republican, voted Democratic to help protect her husband's bets — something he didn't do himself.

A lot of the boys are still chuckling about those free haircuts "just like shooting fish in a pan" they say.

• SEASON ENDS

This week saw the end of the pheasant season and while the season lasted for fifteen days, not a whole lot of birds seem to have been bagged in this area.

Many hunters feel that the season was too long and that the old five day season was long enough considering the number of birds in the area. The best hunting seems to have been on the state preserves where a certain number of hunters are allowed to shoot each day and where a certain number of birds are "planted" each day by the state.

With most farms posted and open hunting allowed in only limited areas, the hunters who haven't got an "in" with some farmer or land owner have pretty slim pickings these days.

What birds were bagged this year are reported to have been good sized birds in fine condition showing they had taken full advantage of the farmers fine crops of corn and soybeans.

• NEW TOWN

There has been a lot of talk and a lot of rumors lately about that new community of Rolling Meadows that is proposed to build south of Arlington Park race track.

On December 12 at 8 p. m. in the Palatine village hall the particulars about this development are likely to come to light when a county zoning board hearing will be held on the question of rezoning the site of the proposed new community from farm land to residential and business property.

Some active opposition has developed to the opening up of this new development and the December 12 meeting is liable to be an interesting affair.

• NEW RESIDENT

A new resident, a gray squirrel, has taken up his abode somewhere in the east part of town and visits around that section in his hunt for food. While these animals are common in many localities where the fox squirrels are seldom seen in this area, the fox squirrel is the common variety and the appearance of one of the gray variety is quite a novelty.

• RAIN AT LAST

At last the rains came, and the danger of grass fires has been greatly reduced and the hard pressed fire department is able to breath a little easier after the most calls in history to combat grass fires.

Farmers, too, welcomed the long needed rain which broke a record drought

EXTINCTION OF A SPECIES

by RALPH PETERS
Bensenville, Ill.

The Ivory Billed Woodpecker

The Ivory Billed Woodpecker, with a length of 21 inches, plumage blue black, a flaming red crest at the back of the head, and the glossy ivory dagger bill, makes him one of the most animated feathered objects of nature.

He has astonishing strength and vigor.

He formerly abounded in the southeastern section of the United States, ranging north to the coast district of North Carolina. In the Mississippi valley it went as far north as southern Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, and western Kentucky; as far west as Texas, and south to the Gulf coast. This vast range has been shrunk to a few scattered areas, principally in Alabama and Florida.

Gunners seldom paid any attention to the bird, yet the reason for its destruction is quite clear, when we look at its habits. It nested only in large trees in very secluded areas. Here, too, it did nearly all of its feeding.

Naturally, the white man could not leave such places alone. It was absolutely necessary to destroy nearly all of these places, for farms, cities, and industries. Of course there was not room in all of the rest of the United States for man; he must also probe into the deepest and most secluded of nature's last strongholds, leaving a wake of destruction as he went. Thus passed many of our American birds and thus many more are passing.

But there is still hope in the few far sighted individuals, who are continually striving to form a conservation minded nation.

In its present numbers the Ivory-bill is incapable of being much value from the agricultural standpoint. If however, it were allowed to regain its former abundance, it would prove to be of eminent value.

Who Pays For Land Improvement Costs?

Division of land improvement costs is one of the big problems on rented farms.

J. B. Cunningham, University of Illinois farm management and tenancy specialist, says it is the responsibility of the landlord to furnish a productive farm.

The landlord and previous tenant may have allowed the farm to run down below the level of the better managed farms in the community. If that is so, the landlord may reasonably be expected to furnish most of the limestone, rock phosphate and other basic soil treatments before the present tenant makes major contributions to these costs.

IF THE tenant shares in the cost of a build-up program, Cunningham says he is entitled to a written guarantee that he will be reimbursed for his undepreciated costs when he leaves the farm.

These improvements would include costs for heavy applications of superphosphate and potash, with residual values, and erosion control structures.

The costs of nitrate and other fertilizers that have little carryover value are usually shared by landlord and tenant in the same way they share the harvested crop.

More detailed and complete provement costs on rented farms suggestions for handling land imare given in Illinois college of agriculture circular 673, which you can get from your farm adviser.

Record Cow

A registered Guernsey cow, Foremost Footprint's Dolly, owned by Gertrude McNaught, Elgin, has completed an official advanced registry record of 10,767 pounds of milk and 536 pounds of butterfat on three times daily milking for 365 days, starting her record as a junior 3 year-old.

"Dolly" is the daughter of the famous Guernsey sire, Foremost Footprint, that has 32 sons and daughters in the performance register of the American guernsey cattle club.

Cheaper Meat Seen If Livestock Ills Can Be Stopped

More and cheaper meat for price-conscious shoppers, and higher income for farmers — that's what more care in controlling livestock diseases could bring, a leading veterinarian said.

Robert Graham, dean of the University of Illinois' college of veterinary medicine, made the prediction at the meeting of the Illinois farm bureau serum association in the Hotel Sherman.

"More effective application" of present state and federal programs "could greatly reduce present losses from animal disease, and thus increase the income of farmers and at the same time add to the human food supply," Graham said.

OUTLINING SOME of the eight diseases currently found in Illinois livestock, he told of these steps to cut down the disease rate:

1. Greater recognition of the "carrier feature" of animal disease (that one animal carries germs to another).
2. "Simple sanitation," including clean pastures, barns, feedlots, etc.
3. The feeding of "balanced rations."
4. Use of serums and chemicals as supplements to — not substitutes for — good management.
5. Early diagnosis of stock diseases.

STOCK DISEASES often are direct dangers to man.

The hog disease, anthrax, is readily communicable to man, Graham warned. He said a new epidemic reached its peak last March, in 129 outbreaks in more than one-fourth of Illinois' counties.

He added that anthrax spores are so hard to kill that they can live for years in contaminated feedlots and pastures, ready to strike at any time.

Of the disease, hog cholera, Graham said that new vaccines are bringing "apparently favorable results."

ALSO UNDER survey in several of the university's 40 current research studies, Graham said, is the use of sulfa drugs against dysentery of hogs.

"The survival rate among the treated animals has been about four to six times that of the untreated control animals," he reported.

For Bang's disease in dairy herds, a test known as the Brucella abortus ring test has brought cheaper and quicker diagnoses, he said.

But the test is unreliable in detecting individually infected animals apart from the herd, and it isn't applicable to beef or goat herds.

Three other important diseases reported under study are the contagious bovine leptospirosis in cows; vesicular exanthema in hogs; and "X-disease," or hornyskin disease, in cattle in many parts of the country.

Need Higher Yields

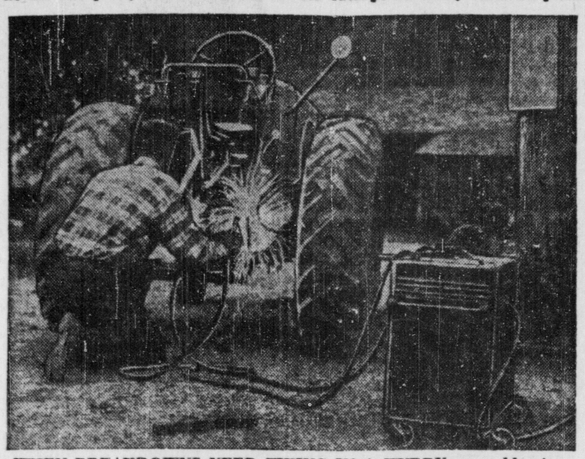

Crops scientists say the U. S. population in 1975 will require food from the equivalent of 115 million more acres than are now in crops. But they see only 45 million acres that could be made productive by that time.

This means that yields will have to be increased considerably on the acres we now have—approximately 20 per cent more per acre in the case of corn, for example.

Dividends Paid by Farm Shops in Time Saved Repairing Equipment

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Farm shops come in assorted shapes and sizes. They may be a converted shed, one half of a two-car garage, or built for the purpose. You can tell quite a lot about a farm—and the farmer—by looking around the average shop. The hand and power tools he has are pretty fair indications of his skill at repairing and maintaining equipment, making improvements on some machines, and just plain hobby work.

WHEN BREAKDOWNS NEED FIXING IN A HURRY—a welder is a farmer's best friend.

On many farms which require a number of different machines, a shop becomes practically the heart of production operations. The investment in tools of various kinds pays off in fewer trips to town, quick repairs of broken parts, and time saved when hours lost mean red ink on farm records. In addition, those energetic 4-H boys and their shop-conscious dads enjoy trying their hands at making those built-in cupboards, desks and other things which mother has seen pictured in farm magazines. Often, they add something here, or subtract something there to adapt a piece of standard equipment to fit their own farm machinery needs.

There is no common pattern for equipping a farm shop. Like so many other buildings, it should be tailored to meet a farmer's requirements and skills. Also, it should be wired to provide sufficient electricity for all power tools, and be well-lighted. Standard recommendations call for the installation of lights on the basis of one for every 200 square feet of floor area. There should be one light installed for each permanently installed piece of equipment, and one for every 10 feet of work bench length.

You will need a No. 6 wire, 230-volt branch circuit for your electric welder—one of the "musts" on any well-equipped farm. It's necessary, too, where improvements are contemplated on metal machine parts, and in making such things as buck rakes, feed carts, elevators and trailers.

A lathe, compressor, band and circular saws will require two 230-volt branch circuits. And you'll need some duplex convenience outlets for that drill press, grinder and other small electrical tools.

When you plan your shop, plan wisely. Locate it where it can serve you best, and equip it with those tools which you need now. Then add equipment as your skills and requirements increase.

State Asks Future Labor Needs Of Local Farms

Questionnaires asking for tentative estimates of workers and types of farm skills which will be required for next season's crops and farm activities are being mailed this week to agricultural employers and farm operators of the North Cook area, Evelyn D. Carpenter, manager of the Illinois State Employment Service announced today.

"The purpose of this pre-season canvassing of the farm labor needs of this area," said Mrs. Carpenter, "is to get an approximate idea of the number of workers and the work experiences which will be required during next year's growing season. The information submitted in this survey will be used by the employment service as a guide for planning an adequate labor supply for this area next Spring and Summer.

"Cooperation in completing the questionnaire and returning it by mail (no postage necessary) does not obligate anyone to hire farm workers or to obtain such help through the employment service office. And, the information furnished is not an order for workers," Mrs. Carpenter emphasized.

Explaining further, Mrs. Carpenter said that the employment service was attempting to anticipate the farm labor demand and to assure an adequate supply of farm help throughout next season, thereby reducing the risks of lost production and food spoilage to all farmers and growers who without planning help needs in advance might experience a shortage of farm hands at the critical planting and harvest peaks.

Sells Five Bulls

A Brown Swiss breeder, Richard Meyer of Palatine, recently sold five bulls to Miles brothers of Whitewater, Wisconsin, including Violet's Viking, China's Champion, Pinky's Johnny, Geneva Bud and Ferdnand's Master Boy.

"It's all right, Mr. Smithers. Mr. Lee and I are engaged."

Asserts Overemphasis Of Effect Of U. S. Price Supports

Though price supports helped our whole economy "out of a rut" in the depression, consumers are misinterpreting their current effects, Dean Emeritus H. P. Rusk of the University of Illinois college of agriculture said.

Supports for five key products in Illinois have had a more psychological than economic effect on retail prices recently, the dean contended.

Rusk's opinion on price supports was based on a study showing that since 1949, four-fifths of Illinois' farmers' cash income has come from five products — cattle, hogs, soybeans, dairy products and corn.

Only corn and soybeans are covered by the support program, Rusk said. And their prices both have been above support levels for 10 years.

He added that since the "emergency" has passed, the influence of supports in his opinion had been a "depressing factor on the market" due to "consumer misinterpretation."

"Too many people believe that subsequent prices of many foods can be explained in terms of the potato episode," he explained.

Snake Bite

If treated within an hour, a poisonous snake bite will not likely be fatal.

Treating Window Sills May Mean Lower Costs

Wood treatment has graduated from fence posts to window sills.

Wayne Meek, forest products use specialist at the Illinois college of agriculture, says that treating tests now under way at the College if successful, may save farmers and other home builders many dollars.

The windows being tested have been built into a field trial laboratory building recently completed by the Illinois small homes council at the University of Illinois. Window assemblies used in the building including louvers, sills, trim and glass mouldings were pressure tested with a water-repellent solution of the wood preservative pentachlorophenol.

RESEARCHERS will keep a careful check on warping, rotting and paint-holding ability of the treated window parts, Meek says. They hope to cut the original cost of window assemblies by using less expensive wood than is now recommended, and then treating it to prevent rot and warping.

By making inexpensive wood durable, it may be possible to eliminate expensive replacement costs altogether, the specialist points out. Heartwood tidewater cypress, which is presently the best wood to use for window assemblies, is both hard to get and costly.

OTHER PRESSURE treated ponderosa pine window assemblies, also installed on the University campus, include those in the new men's residence hall and the new Animal Sciences Laboratory building.

These tests have been made by the forestry department, agricultural experiment station, University of Illinois cooperating with the Illinois small homes council and the U. S. forest products laboratory at Madison, Wisconsin.

For transporting stock or poultry to market in the winter, farmers can easily convert a stake truck into a closed carrier by fastening panels of Masonite quarter-inch Tempered Presdwood.

Low Prices Cause Drop In Milk Production

Declines in milk production have been due mainly to relatively low dairy prices, farmers were told at the annual meeting of the Prairie Farms creameries.

Retail dairy prices have not gone up as much as most food prices, said Don Anderson, dairy branch deputy director of the production and marketing administration, U. S. department of agriculture. While all retail food prices combined increased 127 per cent since 1935-39, dairy products prices went up only 106 per cent, he said.

WHILE TOTAL agricultural production has increased, Anderson pointed out, milk production has decreased nationally since the end of the war, with over one million less farms reporting milk cows.

Anderson insisted that better markets must be built if farmers are not to continue shifting from dairy to other farm production.

Dairy product manufacturers have lost volume, according to Anderson, not only because of the decline in production but also because of the increase in consumption of fluid milk which has further reduced the supply available for manufacture. Per capita consumption of milk nonfat solids has increased 20 per cent during the last two decades, but still only 70% of the annual output is used directly for human food.

To Square Materials

AS RECOMMENDED by American Builder, a leading trade journal, here's a quick method of squaring large sheets of material when a steel square is inaccurate or impractical. These are the steps to follow:

1. Choose a radius that is practical for the job, using "A" as the center.
2. Use the same radius with "B" as a center.
3. Draw a straight line through points "B" and "C."
4. Using same radius and with "C" as center, locate point "D."
5. Lines from "B" to "A" and "D" to "A" form a 90 degree angle.

Soil Conservation Group Host To Machinery Men

At a meeting held at St. Peter activity building, Arlington Heights, Wednesday, Nov. 19, the Cook county soil conservation district directors with the help of Jim Morris, president, zone II, Illinois retail farm equipment association, solicited the cooperation of all machinery dealers and farmers in this area in trying to promote more conservation of our soil.

Emil Hattendorf, district director, explained to the group, the formation and operation of the local district. He pointed out that good soil conservation practices will pay for themselves over and over again, but we must get more people to realize the seriousness of erosion problems before it's too late, states Mr. Hattendorf.

CARL F. MEES, farm adviser, emphasized that "In the next 25 years we must increase our food production 40% which means better land management, or we will follow the pattern set by some of the other nations in not having enough land to produce an adequate diet."

L. H. Hawkins stressed the need for conservation and solicited the cooperation of machinery dealers and businessmen in promoting this great cause.

Maurice Umbdenstock, farm planner, showed two outstanding films. One was on the basic principles of good land use and the other on the overall soil conservation program.

Reed Canary Grass Is Dry Year Lifesaver

That reed canary grass will come through with badly needed forage under drouth conditions was clearly demonstrated this summer at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs experiment station.

H. A. Cate, extension livestock specialist at the southern Illinois station, reports that 80 acres of overflow bottomland planted to reed canary grass there has been carrying 250 head of cows, calves and yearlings for the past three weeks. Dry summer weather in that area had cut supplies of pasture forage to a critically low level.

THIS 80 ACRES was cut for hay this summer, and in spite of the drouth conditions it recovered well enough to carry the heavy livestock population.

Although canary grass is generally recommended for wet, poorly drained areas where other forage crops won't do well, it also has remarkable resistance to drouth, Cate explains. It's a heavy forage producer and a long-season grass.

LADINO CLOVER grows well with canary grass if the grass is kept mowed or grazed to not over 15 inches high. If left to grow, it reaches a height of four to six feet. It makes the best hay, pasture or silage at a shorter, immature stage, Cate points out.

Since reed canary grass is a little slow in geting established, it's a good idea to use other grasses and legumes in the pasture mixture to provide good grazing for the first year or two. Once established, the canary grass will make a crop every year and may be a lifesaver for livestock when other pastures disappear in dry years.

Modern Etiquette

by ROBERTA LEE

Q. Must a man always rise to acknowledge an introduction?

A. Usually, yes—whether he is being introduced to a man or a woman, old or young. An exception would be if seated at a banquet table and he were being introduced to another person across the table from him, or if he were seated behind a table against a wall where rising would prove awkward. In these cases, a smile and a "How do you do" are all that is necessary.

Q. How is the best way to invite a wedding guest to the reception following the ceremony?

A. By including a small card with the wedding invitation, reading, "Reception immediately following the ceremony 756 Park avenue—R.s.v.p.

Q. When a man has taken a girl out to dinner and the theater, should she thank him?

A. She should not thank him, but she should tell him how much she has enjoyed the evening.

Q. What is the difference between the formal and informal tea?

A. The decorations of the informal tea are not so elaborate and the refreshments are more simple. The hostess at an informal tea mingles with her guests and does not remain at the door to greet each newcomer.

Q. When a man is dancing with a girl, and another man "cuts in" on him, is it all right for him to cut back on that man in a few minutes?

A. Never. However, it is all right for him to cut in on a third man, if he wishes, and especially if he is giving the girl "a rush."

Q. Is it all right to use a folded napkin to brush crumbs off the dinner table?

A. Yes, this is quite all right, and it usually does a good job.

Q. What is a suggested "thank you" note for a bride-to-be to write for a wedding gift received?

A. "Dear Betty: It was more than sweet of you and Bob to send us such a lovely (whatever it was). Thank you very much, and I know that John and I are going to get a lot of enjoyment out of it. Looking forward to seeing you on the tenth, Very sincerely."

Q. When a woman is dining in a restaurant with some friends, and another woman stops at her table to exchange a few words, is it necessary to make introductions?

A. No.

Q. Is ice cream always eaten with the spoon?

A. Ordinarily, yes. However, if it is served with pie alamode, then a fork is used.

FARM SCIENCE AT BAT IN THE COTTON FIELD

Now that cotton picking time is here; let's have a look at a cotton field evolution. The familiar scene at the left is being replaced by the one on the right, as more workers leave the farms each year. Thanks to agricultural science, the mechanical picker now can do the work of 40 men. More cotton was harvested mechanically last year than ever before; a new high in mechanical harvesting is predicted this year, the National Cotton Council reveals.

Tax Collections

Collections from franchise taxes and incorporation fees continue to move steadily ahead of last year's marks now being $175,235.52 more than the total collected for the entire year of 1951.

The number of new incorporations in Illinois also is far ahead of last year's levels, he said. A 10-month total of 3,589 new business corporations in the state this year is 179 more than the figure at the end of October last year, and the 475 new out-of-state businesses granted certificates of authority are 47 more than the 10-month total for 1951.

Boy Disappears, Found In Car Just Like Dad's

He doesn't talk very well yet, but a two-year-old Glenview boy showed his elders he can spot an automobile by its make and model, a feat many grownups can't accomplish.

It all started when Mrs. Earl J. Schlosser, of 1776 Harrison st., took her son Donald shopping with her at the supermart on Waukegan near Glenview rd.

Mrs. Schlosser said, "quick as a wink" young Donald disappeared. After a hurried search she called Glenview police who cruised the area for the snowsuit-clad boy.

Finally, after a half-hour search, an officer spotted the boy — crying of course — but in the food store parking lot, and in an auto of the identical make and model owned by his parents.

His mother conjectured that Donald, all 30 inches of him, wasn't tall enough to reach the door handle on the car, and that some sympathetic passerby, after watching him stretch valiantly, opened the door for him.

"Done"

"Done" is often used incorrectly in the sense of "finished," as "It will be an hour before I am done writing the lesson." It is better to say, "It will be an hour before I have finished writing the lesson."

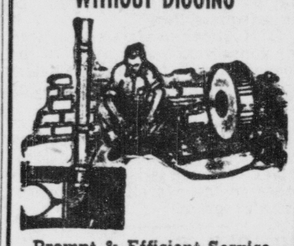

Easy Rinsing

Spray attachments make rinsing easy, use less water, if that is a factor. They should be rinsed immediately so that soap doesn't streak them.

LET'S TALK TURKEY!

Metropolitan newspapers and nationally distributed magazines have been handing out plenty of dope lately - how each one is outdoing the other in reaching the public.

Some speak of increased newsstand sales . . . some of increased advertising lineage . . . some of blanket coverage . . . still others of reaching the "buying public" . . .

But Let's Talk Turkey

What advertisers in Arlington Heights . . . in Palatine . . . in Mt. Prospect and Bensenville . . . want is to reach THEIR customers, not the sports reading thousands of Highland Park, Hammond, and the great south side of Chicago. How many readers of metropolitan newspapers in Rockford, Milwaukee and Peoria are going to run up to Arlington Heights to pick up a blouse, a shirt or toys for junior?

PS Co. May Merge With Commonwealth Edison

Consideration is being given to a proposal to merge Public Service company of Northern Illinois into Commonwealth Edison company, it was announced by Charles Y. Freeman, chairman of the two utility companies. Under the proposal Public Service, now a subsidiary, would become a division of Edison.

The change would be largely a formal step taken in the interest of simplification of corporate structure since Edison now owns more than 99.8% of the stock of Public Service.

The proposal is contained in an amendment to a registration statement on file with the Securities and Exchange Commission in Washington.

Mr. Freeman stated that, under the proposal, the business in the Public Service company territory would be conducted by the "Public Service of Northern Illinois division," with no change in personnel or operations as a result of the move.

Mr. Freeman stated further that because the proposal involves a statutory merger, approval to put the plan into effect, if finally decided upon, would have to be obtained from the companies' stockholders.

About Your Health

The term "atomic medicine" is not really an accurate one, but because of its widespread public use it has taken on a popular meaning. Actually, any drug or treatment which a patient receives makes use of atoms, since all matter is composed of atoms. The unique characteristic of so-called atomic medicine is the presence of radiations in addition to the actual matter itself.

Atomic medicine may be considered as that branch or phase of medicine which makes use of substances which produce radiations and which are called radioactive substances. Thus, long before the first atom bomb was exploded radioactivity has played a role in medicine.

RADIUM, FOR example, has been successfully used by physicians in the treatment of disease for many years, chiefly in the treatment of cancer. Radium is composed of atoms which are continuously giving off a radiation powerful enough to be used to treat cancer.

X-ray has also been used for many years in the therapy of numerous diseases, including those of the skin as well as some forms of cancer. However, the chief importance of x-ray is as a diagnostic tool.

There are some substances in nature, like radium, thorium and uranium, which are constantly giving off radiations. Most substances are not radioactive, but many of them can be made to produce atomic radiations without any change in their physical appearance. In general, radioactivity is said to be due to an "unstable" condition of the atoms which make up a substance.

IN THE process of reaching a more stable condition, energy is given off in the form of radioactivity. Thus one way to make substances radioactive, that is to make them unstable and capable of giving off radiations, is to subject them to strong radiation under certain special conditions. Under these conditions, the normal substances become radioactive themselves. Some of these artificially produced radioactive substances may be active for a long time, while others return to a stable, non-radioactive state in a matter of a few seconds or even less. Again there are variations in their potency and strength.

Research in the field of atomic energy and its application in medicine has developed effective therapeutic measures in many conditions. Radioactive iodine is now being used experimentally in some thyroid disturbances. New knowledge about the life of the red blood cell has been found through experimental studies of radio-activity in the blood. It is now possible to locate tumors in the brain after the injection of certain dyes combined with radioactive substances.

Asserts T-V Impact On Amusements Overrated

While television has probably done more in less time to change our way of living than any other industry, it hasn't had as much effect as many seem to think.

One authority points out that dollar sales of such competitive amusements as newspapers, magazines, movies, betting sports, participating amusements and books amounted to $11,308,000.00. in 1951 compared with $10,276,000,000 in 1949. Books, movies and hoss betting was off somewhat, it's true, but radio, magazines, newspapers and informal recreation had one of their biggest years.

Television isn't through though, and many industries have yet to feel the full effect of television. Previous non-TV areas are getting their first stations and sales of receivers are on the rise again. In September 857,290 sets were sold — well above sales of 700,480 in previous 3 months.

SLEIGHBELLS AT STAKE IN HEIGHTS OPENER WEDNESDAY

MAC SAYS

BY G. A. McELROY

SIXTY-FIVE BASKETBALL GAMES are on the docket for Arlington Heights high school teams this winter, quite a change in sports activity at the local school since the days of the Northeast conference and 600 students. And besides these 65 cage contests, 21 wrestling matches are planned for the grapplers with probably five gymnastics meets, all to be covered by the sports department of your favorite newspaper.

Twenty varsity, seventeen frosh-soph, fourteen frosh and fourteen junior-varsity contests are already set for about sixty boys with tournaments providing a possible few more quarters.

The Palatine doubleheader Wednesday night is opening the season for Heights fans with the JVs playing host to Barrington Tuesday afternoon. The frosh get into the swing of things at Maine Saturday, December 6, after the wrestlers have had their turn at Riverside-Brookfield next Wednesday, December 3.

THERE WILL BE three new coaches in Northwest Conference basketball when the season opens Friday night. Norman Ladd, former Ela cage star, takes over as coach at his alma mater. John Sciacca handles Wauconda, and Walter Nesheim moves up from the frosh-soph to the varsity at Grayslake.

Ladd played guard on the 1944-45 conference champion team coached by H. L. Wesner, now Ela principal. That year Ela won 23 out of 25 games, including the district tournament, That year and the next Ladd was all conference guard.

Ladd won four cage letters at Ripon College where Wesner had played. His education was interupted by two years in the army of occupation in Korea. Last season Ladd taught at Muskegon, Michigan. He replaces Ed Thommen who resigned to coach in his home town at Eureka, Illinois.

* * *

JOHN SCIACCA WHO TAKES OVER cage coaching at Wauconda is a native of South Beloit, Illinois, and attended Northern Illinois teachers college of DeKalb where he was wrestling captain and a three letter man. He was conference champion in the 155 pound class. The past three years Sciacca has been basketball and track coach at Lee Center, Illinois.

Walter Nesheim moves up to varsity basketball and the assistant principalship at Grayslake, taking the place of Jack Stickels, head coach, who moved to East High, Aurora.

Nesheim last year coached a JV team at Grayslake which won 16 out of 17 games and the North Suburban championship.

This year he will have the same group in Northwest conference varsity competition.

THERE HAS BEEN QUITE A TURNOVER in cage coaches in the Northwest in recent years. Mike Berberich, who has been at Grant five years, has the longest tenure at the present. Dick Scott has had three years at Antioch, Frank Novatny two at Bensenville and Gene Moylan one at Palatine.

Four principals among the seven in the conference were former northwest basketball coaches, including W. A. Johnson of Bensenville, G. A. McElroy of Palatine, Richard Warfield of Wauconda and H. L. Wesner of Ela. All coached conference champions. Warfield's championship team was at Ela and the others were at the schools they now head.

NIGHT FOOTBALL MAY BE EXTENDED in the Northwest conference to Ela-Vernon and Wauconda. The Lions club at Lake Zurich, one of the most active in the Chicago area, is investigating the possibility of a lighted football field, tennis courts and other recreational facilities.

At Wauconda the board of education has purchased 20 acres and hopes to interest the community in a park layout with a lighted football field, quarter mile track, baseball and softball fields and play ground facilities.

RESTRICTIONS ON BASKETBALL SCEDULES in Illinois limit playing to 20 games for each school team. If a school plays in no tournament except the state series, a schedule of 23 games may be played. This year among Northwest schools the longest schedule is 23 played by Grayslake and the shortest, Bensenville's 13. The Bisons play only Mooseheart in addition to their Northwest schedule.

The Northwest conference will play a ten-game home and home schedule in baseball next spring. A committee of Mel Eide of Ela, Paul Subject of Grayslake, and Tom Meneguin of Bensenville will draft a schedule. Six schools including Antioch, Bensenville, Ela-Vernon, Grayslake, Grant, and Palatine will play baseball.

THE OLD ARGUMENT that bowling is the game for everyone got an additional boost when Tony Trapasso, 5' 2", 112 pounds, beat the best in Columbus, Ohio, to represent that city in the coming all-star tournament in Chicago . . . Latest rumor as to where state basketball tournaments should be held is Northwestern where almost 10,000 seats will be available in the new fieldhouse . . . Dundee is looking for a football game for either September 25 or 26, 1953 . . .

On the Iowa cage squad are freshmen Bob George of Highland Park and George Wolz of Riverside-Brookfield, the West Suburban loop's leading scorer last season with 257 points . . . Frank Vokac, former Arlington football coach, was much in evidence Saturday as one of the assistants for Austin in that school's successful Chicago city championship playoff with Lane . . .

Bisons, Pirates To Play Again Tuesday Night

The Palatine at Grayslake game Friday night, November 28, is the feature contest in the opening set of games in the Northwest conference. This game was originally scheduled at Palatine for Wednesday, but was moved back two days so Palatine could meet Arlington Heights and Grayslake could schedule Highland Park. The location was changed in hopes that the second meeting of Pirates and Rams January 23 might be played in Palatine's new gym which is far from being completed at this time.

Palatine expects to have one of its best basketball teams this year. The Pirates have beaten Lake Forest and Libertyville of the North Suburban conference in preliminary games so far and have shown phenomenal shooting with 58% against Lake Forest and 33% against Libertyville.

PAUL SCHRAGE, Palatine's little hot shot guard made 20 baskets in 35 shots in the first two games and bagged 56 points. Grayslake is led by a five-foot-six, three year veteran, Jay Hook, who scored 24 points in the opener with Lake Forest. Grayslake whipped Lake Forest by almost the same score Palatine recorded and last Friday beat a veteran Warren five, 54-45. Palatine, Grayslake, Ela-Vernon and Antioch are regarded as having the most potential strength among Northwest teams.

Wednesday night, November 26, Ela-Vernon opened at Bensenville and Wauconda played at Grant in Northwest league games. Palatine's Pirates were trying to regain the sleigh bells trophy at Arlington Heights. Antioch, idle in conference play, was host to Dundee of the Little Sevein conerence.

* * *

NEXT TUESDAY the Northwest conference will play their only set of mid-week games and for Palatine and Ela-Vernon this will be a crucial night. Ela will entertain the Pirates in a game due to have a very important bearing on the league championship. Pirates and Bears are rated the best chance to cop the conference cage title. Other games Tuesday find Bensenville at Grayslake and Antioch at Wauconda with Grant idle.

Handsome. 6'1", 235 lb. Etchison Sure To Please

Ronnie Etchison, handsome six-foot-one inch, 235 pound bundle of dynamite, who has been taking the wrestling world by storm of late, will meet Verne Gagne Saturday, December 13, in the feature event of the wresting show at Arlington Heights school gym. Seats for 4,000 spectators will be available.

Etchison believes in a giant swing followed by a body press, drop kicks and flying tackles as the best methods to dispose of opponents. Ronnie has been wrestling as a professional ten years, winning the Pacific coast heavyweight championship in 1950.

OTHER MATCHES on the program include an Australian tag team set-to with Canadian Angel and Zack Malkov opposing Billy Goelz and Billy Hickson, plus a singleton with Bobby Nelson meeting Carl Meyers.

Tickets are on sale at $2.00 and $2.50 at many local business houses in Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, or can be acquired from any member of Arlington Heights VFW post 981, sponsor of the matches.

Palatine Frosh Trim Antioch Monday, 43-30

Palatine's freshman basketball team took their first victory of the season at Antioch Monday afternoon 43-30. The game was close all the way until the final quarter when the yearling Pirates pulled away. Coach Charley Feutz sent in as the starting lineup Jim Hess and Don Powers at forwards; Carl Bondeson at center, and Bob Coates and George Beyer at guards but Peter Trenchard and Bob Hamilton looked particularly good when they got into the lineup. Others who plated were Duane Harm, Bill Lutz and Steve Cornwell. Hess was high scorer with 13 points.

Palatine's frosh lost their opener to Abbott Junior High frosh of Elgin last week, 39-24, in a game in which the winners had only a one point edge at the half. One of the strongest opponents on Palatine's 20 game schedule will be Leyden at Palatine next Wednesday, December 3.

Roger Steib Voted Glenbard's Most Valuable

Roger Steib was voted the most valuable player on the 1952 Glenbard football team by his teammates last week.

Roger played at fullback on offense for the Bards and was an outstanding line-backer on defense. Roger ("Chief"), probably made as many tackles himself as the rest of the team put together. During the course of the season Roger tallied two touchdowns and played practically all of every game.

Roger thus joins Howard Heinrich of the 1950 team and Louis LaPorte of last year's team in having his name engraved on the trophy presented by the Booster club.

This was the fourth season Roger has worn the Green and White of Glenbard. As a sophomore he was a co-captain of the frosh-soph team. Roger also holds a guard position on the basketball squad.

Twelve trophies will be on the block in Paddock Publications second annual Inter-League Handicap for bowlers in January, all pictured above. The large traveling trophy and five individual awards at the right will be awarded at Arlington Heights Bowling Lanes January 4, while the six trophies at the left will go to the ladies January 11 at Bowlwood Recreation, Wood Dale. Eligibility dates for the double meet are just three weeks away.

Release 21 Matches For Heights Wrestlers

With Arlington Heights grappling mentor Dick Mudge still "very indefinite" about starters in the first wrestling match at Riverside-Brookfield Wednesday, December 3, he did release a list of "best performers to date" as of Monday morning.

And part of that list seems to be only repetition of last year's varsity squad, generously sprinkled in '51 with sophomores and one freshman. Thus far this season all workouts have been strictly conditioning. Mudge believes his boys should be in top condition before taking on any opponents, even in intrasquad matches.

The Riverside meet, first of 21 to come, will have an allowance of two pounds by mutual agreement.

AT HEAVYWEIGHT it will once again be Dave Brant, one of five returning lettermen for the Cardinal and White. Other veterans looking best at the various weights include Jim Worley at 140, Norb Sargent at 122, Bob Butler at 156 and Mike Deschner at 147. Worley and Sargent are seniors, the other three juniors.

Others appearing strongest in the various divisions include Vic Carlino at 92, Joe Campbell at 105, Walter Mulso at 114, Charles Turk at 129, Neil Barr at 135, and Floyd Burns at 177. Harrison Kennicott and John Milnamow are about equal at 167.

Sargent pulled a muscle in practice, but Coach Mudge is hoping he will be ready for the Riverside-Brookfield affair.

8 Boys Stand Out For Heights JVs; Open Dec. 2

Eight boys stand out for Coach Ken Schaller this week as he prepares for the Arlington Hts. junior-varsity cape opener with Barrington Tuesday afternoon at 4:30. Eleven games have been announced thus far for the JVs, starting with the Broncs in the Heights gym. Two with Lake Forest and one with Maine are expected to be announced within two weeks.

Schaller wasn't ready to commit himself Monday of this week, but picked the eight most likely starters instead. The 14 boys he is working with were all cut from the varsity squad, some of them to give more opportunity for competition.

* * *

AT CENTER will be found Bob Vetter, Don Hutchinson and possibly Charles Verrett. The two Vs were not out for practice last week, but are expected to be back in action this week. At the forward posts are carded Dave Ryden and Lowell Bjorkson. Three guards include Jack Sieburg, Dick Hauff and Dave Ells.

Others on the squad include Randy Thomas, Grant Skelton, Pat Nangle, Ken Lemke, Don Drever and John McLaughry.

Grange To Announce All-American Team

On the "Red" Grange program on WGN Friday at 7:45 p.m. "Red" Grange selects his third annual All-American team, in conjunction with the Red Grange football show.

"Red's" selections are made from the inside information he gets from all over the country from coaches, writers, and his radio listeners. "Red" has had the distinction that more successful professionals have emerged from his selections than any other All-American team.

"Red" will tell why he picked the particular players he did, and will tell just what a boy must possess to qualify for All-American consideration. "Red" should know . . . he was unanimous All-American for three straight years —1923, 1924, 1925—and was selected as All-Time All-American.

Pirates Favored At Arlington

Arlington's basketball hopes for the opener against Palatine Wednesday night were dealt a serious blow Friday when Dick McAuliffe, the only real height in the starting Heights five, sprained an ankle and wasn't expected to see action against the Pirates. Coach Ray DeGreeff hoped to have him ready for the league opener a week later against LaGrange but stated Monday he didn't think Dick would be available Wednesday night.

Taking the place of McAuliffe was to be Bob Turner at the center position. Johnny Eakins has one of the guard positions cinched while Wayne Hesch and George Skelton are about equal at the other guard. Three boys rating top consideration for the two forwards are Tom Bowersox, Herb Gorder and Larry Slinkard.

THE CARDINALS looked bad in initial scrimmages but have been improving. Whether they will come through as well in actual competition, or fold the way they often did last season after looking good in scrimmages, remains to be seen. Palatine has been gunning for the sleighbells this year and will provide a good test for the Heights five.

With McAuliffe out Coach DeGreef will be relying on the height of George Skelton to help take up the slack. McAuliffe's rebounding will be missed most, however.

THE OUTLOOK for the year—Arlington should be as good as last year (5-9 in conference play) with some improvement possible. The squad appears to have a little more depth this season.

Pushing for forward positions are Marshall Dahlstrom and Roger Thomas. Others looking good at guard are Fred Good and Mike Shanklin. Others on the present 16-man squad include Jim Whitelaw, Bob Thompson, Don Rash and Roy Hinneberg.

LACK OF HEIGHT is the biggest obstacle for Coach Maurice Klotz and the Heights frosh-sophs this year. Outside of Wayne Mueller, who'll play center and stands just over six feet tall, none of the sophomores are over 5'9" tall.

Probable starters for Klotz in the opener Wednesday night against Palatine include Mueller at center, Jack Riggs and Dennis Maher at guards, John Theis at one forward, and either Wayne Brumm or Dick Malcolmson at the other forward spot.

Expect To Name First Entrant For Coming Paddock Bowling Tournament Wednesday

First entrant for the forthcoming Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap bowling tournament is expected to be named this week when action is concluded in the Wednesday Scratch league at Arlington Hts. Bowling Lanes. Arlington Furniture Mart led by eight games with just three weeks to go until "deadline."

First place teams of men's leagues within the area served by Paddock Publications as of December 13 are eligible to compete in the Inter-League Handicap January 4 at Arlington Hts. Bowling Lanes. First place teams of women's leagues within the same area as of December 20 are eligible for the women's tournament January 11 at Bowlwood Recreation, Wood Dale.

* * *

FURNITURE MART, probable representatives of the hottest league at Heights, will attempt to better the tourney record set by the loop's representative, L-Nor Cleaners, last year, 2903 for fourth place. Personnel of the squad includes Ken Fuhr, Stewart, Everett Lindgren, Chuck Kleinofen and Tom Kouros.

The squad holds an eight game margin over Pabst Blue Ribbon and is virtually "in." Just two wins of the next nine games will cinch a berth.

Possible repeater in the tournament this year is Arlington Liquor Mart of the Businessmen's Sportsmen's league at Arlington. The Marts replaced Dunteman Dairy in first spot last week, holding a one game margin over the milkmen and Arlington Pharmacy. The squad includes four keglers from last year, Mickey Saelens, Carl Engel, Wally Meyer and Jo Bodor, with Dieball replacing Len Arnold.

TEAM AVERAGES of these two leading teams are about 850 and 780, respectively. The tourney, however, is a handicap affair, giving all squads an equal chance at the $200 in prizes and six trophies.

In other leagues at Arlington Heights Webber Paint, Esquire Service and Krause and Kehe, last year's Thursday Men's entrant, are bunched at the top, averaging about 750. Friday Men's league has the Turf and John's Tavern battling for the lead with Schnell's three games back. Top average is 801.

Two other loops at Heights find Black's Funeral one notch ahead of Gieseke's Store, and three ahead of Schimming Oil in the Lions league; and the Packers heading the parade in St. Raymond's league by four games over the Browns.

WHETHER THE WOMEN'S division will pay off according to averages remains to be seen. Hottest aggregation at Arlington Heights Bowling Lanes is the Women Keglers loop, rolling Tuesday nights. Emerald Shop was edging Winkelman Tire last week by a half-game, with Hagenbring's back two more. The leaders have a 745 average.

In the Wednesday Ladies league Arlington Bank is battling it out with Lorraine Anne for the lead with both Krause Market and Arlington Pharmacy both just a half game behind. Top average is about 650.

The Lady Wheelers have Flaherty Jewelers one notch ahead of Lauterburg and Oehler, with the Liquor Mart and Black's close behind. The girls have until December 20 to decide eligibles. Top average is 666.

ROYAL BLUES are leading the Monday Blues loop by two games over the Midnights with the Navy back two more. Two four-men team leagues are Scarsdale Ladies, where Eleanor's Bake Shop and Neumann Barbers are fighting it out ahead of A. H. Entertainers, and Tri-City Ladies where Busse's is definitely ahead of Wille Coal and Garlisch.

Greschner Electric is leading the Thursday Afternoon Ladies league by four games over Parkway Liquors and Karstens-Helbig Jewelers.

Entry fees for both divisions of the Paddock tournament are $15 per squad. Expected prizes will total $200 for the men and $150 for the women, in addition to six trophies in each division. Entry deadlines are at publication office by December 20 for the men, and December 27 for the women.

Hinsdale Opens With 51-40 Win Over Dundee; 2 Lettermen

by EVAN GILMORE

Hinsdale township high school's varsity basketball team opened its 1952-53 season with a handy 54-41 win over Dundee at Hinsdale Friday night. Varsity coach Larry Hoff has built his team around two returning lettermen, guards Fred Bresnahan and Frank Stanicek, both seniors.

Other returning squad members are John Little, center; Rolf Spamer, forward, Dale Busch, forward; Fritz Neu, forward and Brice De Vos, guard, all seniors.

WITH A TURNOUT of 17 seniors and 22 juniors, prospects are "pretty fair" according to Hoff.

The frosh-soph team coached by Jim Robbins didn't fare quite as well when they dropped a 31-30 squeaker to the Dundee boys the same evening.

CYO Boxing Show At Stadium Monday PM

Fight fans eager to encourage young men and boys in the rudiments of good citizenship and sportsmanship will flock to the Chicago Stadium, Monday night, December 1, to witness the 22nd annual CYO boxing classic when eight novice and eight open championships in various weight classifications, will be determined.

That boxing enthusiasts will see a great show is indicated by the spirited preliminary bouts, conducted on the north side and at the downtown CYO gym, during the past two weeks, with more than 400 amateur leatherpushers battling it out for the chance to be seen in the classic. Never before in the history of CYO were there so many entrants according to Pat Cleary, boxing director for the organization and, thus, never was rivalry so keen.

The big classic will get under way promptly at 8 o'clock. There will be young pugilists from Great Lakes Naval Training Station and from Ft. Sheridan, as well as boys from the north, west and south sides all vying for glory and for the trophies posted by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director-general of the Catholic Youth Organization.

IHSA Announces 1953 Grid Limits

The Illinois high school athletic association said high school football practice in 1953 must not start before August 31 nor the playing season before September 18.

The Illinois Interscholastic, IHSA official publication, stressed that dates for grid practice and season opening have been fixed under an amendment to recently adopted athletic by-laws.

The earliest date for organizing teams for practice is the first Monday preceding Labor Day. The second Friday following Labor Day is the earliest a game or inter-school scrimmage may be held.

Buzzer Sounds As Ball Swishes Through 2 Point Margin Over Glenbard

Glenbard basketeers dropped both ends of the opening doubleheader with Naperville of the Little Seven conference Friday night, 52-49 and 40-38, in frosh-soph and varsity encounters, respectively.

A Merriwell finish was provided in the nightcap when the buzzer sounded as the winning Naperville toss was going through the air for the final two point margin. Mullin and Saviano each scored ten points for the Bards, while Bob Edwards was high man for the Glenbard youngsters with 15 scores.

Starting lineup for Glenbard included Duffey and Saviano at forwards, Mullin at center and Cline and Slater at guards.

Subs Stop Libertyville Rally For Palatine Victory, 48-46

Palatine substitutes came through in the final quarter to stave off a Wildact rally as the Pirates won a 48-46 victory at Libertyville Friday night. Palatine made six free throws in the final two minutes, five of which were dropped in by Tom Lay, Lawrence Hapke and Roger Kolze.

Palatine had a nine point lead early in the final period but it faded fast as the Wildcats hit three in a row from the field with three minutes to play. The final minutes were exciting and hectic with numerous fouls and regulars leaving the game for both teams. Steady play in the pinch by Palatine subs was the difference.

THE PIRATES played a consistent game, scoring 12 points in each quarter. They led the Wildcats 12-8 the first quarter and though Schrage caged seven points in the second period Libertyville went out in front 25-24 at the half. The Wildcats put on a tough pressing defense near the end of the half which had Palatine demoralized a few minutes and enabled the home team to take the lead. Palatine forward Dick Abrahamson collided heads with a Libertyville player and left the game with a slight concussion just before the intermission.

In the third period Palatine forged ahead 36-30, as Libertyville failed to score on 13 shots from the field and Paul Schrage led the Palatine offense with 9 points. After John Busch, Dick Meyer, Stan Hauseman and Pete Abramson went out on fouls Paul Schrage and four junior subs saved the game in the closing minutes.

BOTH TEAMS made 20 free throws. Palatine made 14 out of 43 from the field while Libertyville made 13 out of 47 for 27.-7%. Paul Schrage made eight baskets in 14 shots and five out of eight free throws for 21 points. John Busch, Pirate center, scored nine.

Doug Kay of Libertyville had five field goals and 11 free throws for 21 points while Engelbrecht scored nine and Pinkstaff seven.

LIBERTYVILLE'S junior varsity were out of Palatine's class, winning an easy 34-12 victory. If Palatine could have made free throws the score might have been more respectable. Palatine missed their first 13 free throws and made only two out of 22 for the entire game.

Libertyville had several freshmen in the lineup from last year's grade school five which had an undefeated season with 17 victories. Weidner was the Wildcat's top scorer with fifteen points. Alan Eck, a sophomore transfer from West Chicago was Palatine's outstanding performer.

SCORES OF THE last week end in this area indicate to some extent who will be the strong teams in their respective leagues. Tab Leyden of Franklin Park and Argo as two of the best in the South Suburban where Thornton and Bloom usually reign supreme. Leyden beat Evanston and Argo whipped Highland Park and Proviso last week end. Too bad that Leyden's Eagles have a cracker box gym to handicap their chances for they have a lot of tall veterans and some excellent junior prospects.

Barrington's close battle with Hebron indicates two things to us. Barrington will be just as strong as expected and will win the North Suburban.

Hebron has a long, long way to go to be in the same class with last year's state champs. Libertyville and Wood stock will provide Barrington tough opposition in their new cage circuit but we think they can win if the new boy, Don Bock, can successfully take the place of all-conference Fred Cochran who has dropped out of basketball.

HINSDALE'S WIN over Dundee indicates the Red Devils have considerable strength for deLacey's Cardunals are rated to go through the Little Seven undefeated by Elgin sports writers. Coach deLacey told us last year he expected a stronger team this season but that they might take several games to get going due to lack of varsity experience.

The Big Ten season is over and Wisconsin goes to the Rose Bowl to be the first Western conference team in seven years to bow to the west coast, according to the experts. After the topsy turvy race the Big Ten had this year anything can happen so the Badgers might surprise.

Most experts gave the nod to Wisconsin before the season opened but after their defeat at Ohio State they were not in the running again until the eliminations of the final two weeks.

Some say Ohio is the hottest team right now but it is quite a wait until January 1 and Wisconsin has the best balanced club to make a bid in Pasadena. Michigan State will provide much stronger Rose Bowl opposition for the Pacific Coast next season when they finally get the chance to win the Big Ten after two years a member but no chance to play in the league.

DON'T SEPARATE ADJOINING ROOMS . . .

. . . by using contrasting colors on walls and floors — and a different style of furniture in each room . . . especially if the opening between the rooms is wide. This is likely to produce a choppy effect, destroy all sense of coordination, and make a small home appear much smaller than it really is.

RELATE NEARBY ROOMS

First: by matching or blending the background colors so that the division between the rooms does not seem abrupt. Then, by choosing furniture pieces for one room that repeats the style of the other to preserve a sense of unity. Matching-wall-to-wall carpeting in adjoining rooms adds a feeling of spaciousness.

The success of the home as a whole is really due to the sum of its parts . . . each room must contribute its share to the beauty, comfort and livability of the home. Our friendly, trained decorating staff will be most happy to help you with ideas that will add to your home's success. So come in and talk things over with us . . . anytime.

Floor coverings are one of the home's most important furnishings. They should be chosen with the utmost care. Our new selections of broadlooms, shags and hooked rugs and carpeting offer you a wide variety of color and weaves.

One way to coordinate the color scheme in adjoining living and dining rooms is to match the dining chair seats to the living room sofa in color and texture. Be sure to see our new group of dining room chairs. Many with slip seats. Modern and traditional styles.

We have chosen every piece of furniture in our store for its solid worth and enduring beauty. We cordially invite you to come in and get acquainted with our friendly staff and let them help you make satisfactory selections. Our welcome mat is always out.

An American Thanksgiving

Our thanks to God as the source of our blessings is an American tradition. In 1621, their first autumn in America, the Pilgrim Fathers thanked God for bountiful harvests. In 1789, our first president, George Washington, recommended a national day of thanksgiving to God for our form of government.

The bowed head and the grateful heart are a common American symbol, whatever our creed.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By EDWARD J. BARRETT
Secretary of State

Failure to see stop signs or traffic signals located at the side of a roadway has been the cause of many crashes at intersections. In many cases, it has not been the fault of the driver involved, but rather the result of someone else having parked his car too close to the stop sign or traffic signal, blocking the view of the driver and preventing him from seeing the sign in time.

State law prohibits parking within 30 feet of any flashing beacon, stop sign or traffic control signal located at the side of a roadway. (Section 90, a, 7, Uniform Act Regulating Traffic.)

Like all the other traffic laws, this one too is for your own protection. When you are driving, you want that 30 feet free of obstructions to your vision so you can stay out of trouble. Don't deny it to the other fellow, no matter how scarce parking spaces may be.

A copy of the booklet, "Rules of the Road," containing many traffic safety suggestions, will be sent to you free upon request. Write to EDWARD J. BARRETT, Secretary of State, Springfield, Illinois.

TAX FACTS

By George Mahin, Executive Secretary, Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois

The recent riot at Menard State Penitentiary at Chester focused national attention on this important phase of Illinois State government under the Department of Public Safety.

In addition to the penitentiary at Chester, the department also operates the prison at Pontiac, the old prison and Stateville at Joliet, and a prison farm at Vandalia.

The department of public safety also is responsible for state police operations, criminal investigations, pardons and paroles. The state fire marshal is under the department of public safety also.

The total cost of operating the department has increased from $10,690,100 in the year from July 1, 1947, through June 30, 1948, to $13,168,394 in fiscal 1951-52. Most of this cost is paid out of the general fund. However, costs of the state police are paid out of the road fund (motor vehicle licenses, drivers' licenses, and motor fuel tax principally). The cost of the state fire marshal's office is paid from the fire prevention fund (from a tax on premiums of fire insurance companies).

Costs of operating the penal system have risen $1,304,208 (or 20.5%) since 1947-48. During the same period, the number of inmates within the penal institutions has decreased by 111 inmates. The ratio of guards to inmates has changed only slightly.

Costs of operating the state police system have risen sharply by $1,126,988 or 37%. A major reason for this increase has been the addition of the truck weighing duties to the state police. Since the inauguration of this truck weighing program the number of violations as compared to the number of trucks weighed has dropped steeply. During the fiscal year of 1949-50, there were 707,782 trucks weighed, 27,949 arrests made for violations, or 3.9%, with fines amounting to $343,622. During the last fiscal year, 1,817,693 trucks were weighed, only 17,348 violations were found, or less than 1%, yet fines increased to $501,490. The heavier fines are the result of legislation supported by the taxpayers' federation of Illinois and enacted in 1951.

Costs of criminal investigations, paroling of offenders and the supervision of parolees has decreased below the cost in 1947-48 by $55,851, or 8.5%.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Here are two of the many problems confronting the new Administration.

One problem has been presented almost as a kick in the face to Americans who have been in Canada the past few months. American money is now discounted when exchanged for Canadian money.

* * *

American dollars, always worth about $1.10 in Canadian money, are now worth about 90 cents. Americans who protest receive this answer.

C. W. Harder

"If you Americans keep on giving everything away, by next year you'll get even less for your dollars up here."

But prosperous Canada with vast resources is a major beneficiary of U. S. aid programs.

For one thing, U. S. Officials have permitted the Canadian newsprint monopoly to continually boost prices without taking any remedial measures. Canada also receives a large share of business from purchases in Canada to give away.

For example; on just one day approximately $3 million worth in metal, tractor and farm equipment, was bought in Canada by U.S. taxpayers to give to French African colonies.

* * *

So it is little wonder that Canadian money is worth more than U. S. money. Around Washington they say, "We love our allies so much we are killing ourselves with kindness."

* * *

Another problem is the Office of Price Stabilization, still spending millions building mountains out of molehills to justify continuance of fat salaries.

Probably Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin will have some words on the subject when Congress convenes. In his state, OPS is now interfering with the operation of golf clubs.

Directors of the Brown's Lake Golf Association near Burlington, Wisconsin, voted to raise weekend green fees to $2.50.

But in Milwaukee, the regional OPS gauletier has a great capacity for trivia. The golf association received an edict to reduce daily green fees to $1.14; weekend fees to $1.64.

* * *

Either through legislation, or the facts of competitive economic conditions, OPS finds itself with little to enforce. So OPS moves in on golf clubs.

It sounds like pure comedy, even though expensive comedy to U. S. taxpayers, except analysis shows the danger of OPS.

Interference with a golf club operation equals or exceeds the control of private activities that the Hitler mob practiced.

If permitted to continue on its present trend, OPS can and will exercise so much power that the recent election by which the people delegated authority will become a hollow mockery.

* * *

It may be argued that as long as the nation pours out billions to aid incompetent nations, it is only proper that a few millions be spent to give domestic aid to the nation's incompetent in the form of lush jobs in an organization such as OPS.

* * *

However, to let these incompetents also tear down the traditional form of American liberty is too high a price. Congressmen, backed by organized independent business are sure to make OPS a major issue early in 1953.

Q. How can birds be kept out of a chimney?

A. Put a piece of wire mesh over the top of the chimney. Smoke will still be able to escape, but birds and squirrels will find their way blocked.

Right!

The distaff side of a family is the female side.

Shrub Plantings For Winter Color

Many varieties of shrubs in addition to the familiar evergreens can add touches of color to yards and farmsteads in the winter months.

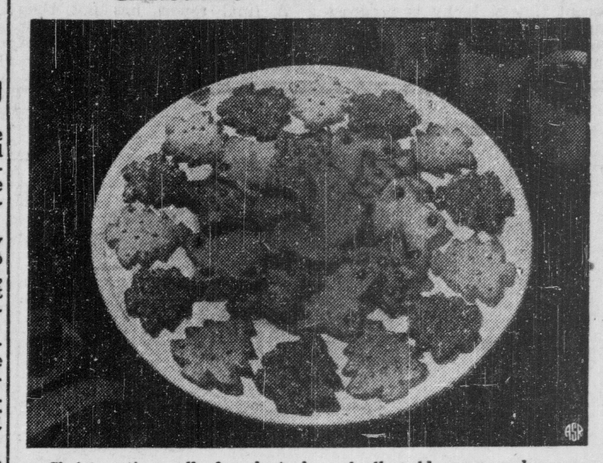

H. R. Kemmerer, farm landscape specialist at the Illinois college of agriculture, says the broad-leaved evergreens, which also hold their leaves in winter, are becoming more popular each year in Illinois landscapes.

Such shrubs include scarlet firethorn and Oregon hollygrape for southern Illinois and varieties of wintercreeper euonymus for the entire state.

Winter landscapes are also being brightened with other types of shrubs which lose their leaves in winter, but still provide welcome spots of color in their bark, Kemmerer points out. Some varieties of dogwood have bark with shades of red, yellow and bright green. Virginia rose and greenstem forsythia, with their green twigs, add color to a shrubbery border.

Winged and dwarf-winged euonymus have an attractive winged bark that blends well with evergreens. American Witchazel's yellow blooms add color to late fall.

Christmas Calls For Goodies

Christmastime calls for plenty of cookies—just plain good eating cookies and some that are special in looks as well as in taste.

Here's a tasty eating cookie recipe and some ideas for Christmas decoration. Nonfat dry milk is an added feature of this recipe and besides the important milk nutrients it contributes flavor and texture to these cookies. It is extremely reasonable for a one-pound package available at the grocer's will yield five quarts of nonfat milk for as little as nine cents a quart.

Simply add nonfat dry milk right from the package to other dry ingredients in these Christmas cookies:

Christmas Cookies
(Makes 2½ to 3 dozen medium-size cookies)
1 cup sifted flour
½ cup Starlac nonfat dry milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift together flour, Starlac nonfat dry milk powder, baking powder and salt. Cream shortening; gradually add sugar and cream until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in vanilla. Blend flour mixture into creamed mixture. Wrap cookie dough in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator at least ½ hour. Roll out on floured board to ⅛-inch thickness. Cut into various Christmas shapes with floured cookie cutter. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in a moderate oven (375°F.) until lightly browned, about 5 to 7 minutes. Remove from sheet at once. Cool. Decorations for Christmas Cookies: Mix 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar with about 2 tablespoons of liquefied Starlac nonfat dry milk (make liquid Starlac nonfat milk according to package directions). Tint to desired shade with certified food coloring. Spread or press through pastry tube onto cookies in desired patterns. Tinted Sugar: Put a few drops of certified food coloring into ¼ to ½ cup granulated sugar and toss quickly with a spoon to distribute color without dissolving sugar. Sprinkle on cookies before baking. Variation: Chopped nuts, cut-up dried fruits, vari-colored candy sprinkles or chocolate bits or sprinkles may be placed on cookies before baking.

Simple Canopy Over Doorway Helps Appearance Of Garage

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q. Is there any way to fix cracks in a cast iron boiler?

A. A compound of the kind used to stop leaks in an automobile radiator will serve to close small cracks. Larger cracks usually can be welded.

Q. Can new stucco be put on top of old?

A. Yes, if the old stucco still sticks firmly to the lath behind it. It should be cleaned thoroughly before the new material is applied.

Q. If shellac is spilled on clothes, how can it be removed?

A. Sponge the spot with alcohol.

Q. Is it possible to paint galvanized iron so that the paint won't flake off?

A. This is difficult to do because the galvanizing process leaves a film of zinc that prevents paint from bonding well. Old galvanized metal holds paint better than new. If galvanized metal is allowed to weather for at least six months before it is painted, good results usually will be obtained.

Q. If several small leaks have appeared in a roof, can it be repaired or is it time to put on an entirely new roof?

A. A new roof unquestionably is needed. Roofing will give many years of service but wears out uniformly, and the first leak in a roof that has had plenty of wear is a sign that the entire roof covering needs to be renewed. Patching is futile. The recommended way to reroof economically is to use asphalt shingles which can be applied directly on top of most old materials. This saves the expense of tearing the worn out roofing off.

Q. What can be done to keep moisture from condensing on cold water pipes?

A. The pipes can be insulated. Several types of insulating material can be used. A prefabricated type is split lengthwise so that it can easily be placed around the pipe. Other insulating materials are wrapped around the pipe. A trird type is a mastic compound, which is applied to the pipe by hand.

A simple architectural improvement like a canopy over a doorway will enhance the appearance of a garage or residence. Here are the easy directions for making a canopy:

Shaped like a shallow hotbed, the canopy should be an inch or two wider than the door and its frame, 24" deep and 6" high at the building tapering to 2". It may be built and painted in the home workshop and then fastened to the building with brass screws.

THE FRAMEWORK of one-inch pine is held rigid by a two-inch strip of wood which divides the framework vertically and serves as a center support for the roof.

For an attractive trim on the front and sides, cut some scallops in pieces of Masonite 1/8" tempered Presdwood, using a coping or band saw. Attach them to the wood with finishing nails. For the canopy roof, use some 3/16" tempered Presdwood cut into 8-inch strips the width of the canopy and over-lapped two inches. These shingles should extend over the edges of the framework approximately one inch.

Sides of the canopy may be painted to match the garage or house, and the roof to match the trim.

How to Wash and Press a Shirt In Five Minutes . . .

LOOK TO YOUR LAURELS, ladies! The men are washing their own shirts. With the growing popularity of synthetic yarn, wrinkle-free shirts, the men have discovered that it's easy and fun to douse them in the washbowl at night. Hang up dripping on a coat hanger. In a short time a clean, dry, freshly pressed shirt.

This bit of information comes from Winifred S Carter, director of Procter & Gamble's Household Information Service, who reports that just as women launder their nylons and white gloves at night so they'll be fresh for next day's wearing, so men are dunking their dacron and nylon shirts as soon as they finish wearing them for the day.

New type detergent is the perfect team-mate for these new fabrics advises Mrs. Carter. They make washbowl type of laundering a cinch. Just wash extra soiled parts of shirts, like cuffs, and fold in the collar first. Place them on the edge of the bowl and scrub gently with a soft nail-brush which has been dipped in suds. If the soil is stubborn, apply detergent directly to the spot, and scrub. Then wash the whole shirt. Rinse and hang dripping wet on a wooden clothes hanger hooked over the shower bar. Do not squeeze.

The whole business takes less than five minutes. The result: a shirt that looks not only freshly laundered, but also freshly pressed. (ANS Features)

Feehanville School

A final report has not been made as yet, but there will be in excess of $200 for the PTA treasury.

Judge Sengstock, Des Plaines, spoke at the November meeting of the Feehanville PTA held Friday, November 19, at the school. His topic was the responsibility of adults in setting an example to the young folks by obeying all traffic laws themselves.

If a child on a bicycle sees adults in cars disobeying traffic signals, then he will be apt to disobey also. Judge Sengstock said if we can train a young driver to handle a two wheeler safely and according to rules, then we have the beginning of a good driver.

Brownie Assistant

We badly need an assistant to help Miss Rund with the Brownies. No training will be necessary. The Brownies meet from 4 to 5 p. m. Tuesday. Any mother who can help out by devoting one hour a week, please get in touch with one of the members of the committee, Mrs. Ed Brookhauzen, CLearbrook 3-3378, Mrs. Jack Levine, CLearbrook 3-4513 or Mrs. Roman Anderson, VAnderbilt 4-2215.

All of those who didn't get to the barn dance missed a good time. We owe a great deal of thanks to the following members who worked so hard: Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bischof, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Brookhauzen, James Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Flink, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Haverkampf, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Murphy, Mrs. Irwin Phar, Mrs. Frank Smith and Mike Zeravich.

New PTA President

The appointment of Mrs. Edward Mueller, Rand rd., to serve as president of the Feehanville PTA for the balance of the term was unanimously ratified by the members of the PTA. Mrs. Mueler has been interested in and has been working for the school for a great many years.

The next meeting of the PTA will be the Christmas party. Hope all the parents with their children can attend.

Mrs. Harold Broberg, who was elected president last spring, is unable to continue with her duties due to her recent illness. We will miss Mrs. Broberg and hope to see her back soon.
